

COUNTY LEAGUE
HEAD SAYS IT IS NOT OPPOSED TO COUNCIL BILLClayton Mayor Comments After Sponsor Obtains Delay Which Jeopardizes Passage of Measure.

Mayor F. William Human of Clayton, president of the St. Louis County Municipal League, said today the league was not opposed to a bill pending in the Legislature for a constitutional amendment to give broader powers to the St. Louis County Council.

Representative Patrick J. Hickey (Dem.), St. Ann, sponsor of the House-approved bill, obtained a Senate committee delay yesterday which seriously jeopardizes prospects for passage of the proposal this session. Hickey explained that some mayors and representatives of the league told him they wanted to discuss the bill before the committee.

For that reason, the Senate Judiciary Committee postponed action until after a hearing next Tuesday. Next Friday is the deadline for legislative action. Hickey's move was a surprise to Senate leaders, who considered it extremely doubtful whether passage could be obtained at such a late stage.

Provisions of Bill.

The constitutional change would make it possible for St. Louis county voters to give the County Council additional power in seven fields of municipal service, including public health and safety, control of arterial highways, water supply, garbage disposal, recreation, public transportation and civil defense. Under present law the council's powers are limited largely to the unincorporated areas.

Mayor Human said the league's legislative chairman, William Dorsey, was at Jefferson City yesterday. He said he decided we were not opposed to the bill. He explained that the league had voted in favor of some provisions contained in the bill, but had not gone on record on the entire proposal.

Hickey told a reporter other opponents who wanted to be heard were Mayor Clarence G. Tiemeier of St. Ann and Mayor Leo Hayes of Wellston.

Tiemeier said today he had asked for a delay so he and other opponents could testify. One of his main objections, he said, is that the council could be given authority to classify certain streets as arterial highways.

Hayes was in Jefferson City yesterday, visiting in the office of a Senator near the committee room at the time of the hearing.

Approval Expected.

Favorable committee action on the measure had been expected yesterday. After explaining it briefly, and offering two amendments, Hickey said "a number of mayors" desired to testify against it, "and in all fairness I think there should be another hearing next week, so they can have an opportunity to be heard."

Senator Omer H. Avery (Dem.), Troy, then asked, "Do you want your bill out of here at this session, or don't you?" Hickey did not reply.

Two St. Louis county Senators, Democrats Maurice Schechter of Creve Coeur and John J. Johnson of St. Louis, said they were not opposed to the bill.

Warmer

Official forecast for St. Louis and vicinity: Increasing cloudiness and warmer tomorrow with scattered showers or thunder-showers late tomorrow afternoon and night; high tomorrow 80 to 85; low tomorrow morning in uppers 50s; outlook for Friday, decreasing cloudiness and pleasant.

EICHMANN SAYS HE DEALT ONLY WITH ARRANGING TRAINS FOR JEWS

Tells Court He Took Orders From Gestapo Boss and His Suggestions Were Often Ignored.

JERUSALEM, June 21 (UPI)—Adolf Eichmann said today that he was just a railroad timetable man who had nothing to do with killing Jews or ordering them to their deaths.

He told the Israeli court trying him on charges of responsibility for the killing of 6,000,000 Jews in World War II that he was not to blame for the deportation of Jews or for the theft of their property.

He took his orders from his Gestapo boss, Gen. Heinrich Mueller, enjoyed no special privileges, and his recommendations often were ignored by the Nazi foreign office, Eichmann told the court.

Knew About Gas Trucks.
He admitted he knew about the gas trucks used for killing Jews in Poland, but he insisted that another secret police department was responsible for them.

Eichmann replied to questioning by defense attorney Robert Servatius on the second straight day of his appearance in his own defense.

He told the court about the security setup in which he headed, IV-B-4 department — the Jewish affairs office.

He admitted his office was responsible for drawing up charts and timetables for transporting Jews across Europe. He said details were handled by his own special representative in Poland.

Servatius asked his questions almost exclusively on the documents already submitted in evidence by the prosecution.

Servatius asked this point-blank question:

"In all this hierarchy could you have taken steps in Hungary in contravention of orders given you by the S.S. and police?"

Eichmann replied firmly:

"No."

The purpose of the question was to answer the prosecution's assertion that Eichmann insisted on shipping the Jews of Hungary to death camps even after his S.S. boss Heinrich Himmler had ordered the program stopped.

Charts Chain of Command.

The defense submitted a chart drafted by Eichmann himself to illustrate the setup and chain of command in the Nazi security police. The various departments were shown in different colored pencils.

Servatius showed a copy of it to Eichmann and asked: "Did you draft this plan with your own hand and was it made in accordance with your own draft?"

"Yes," Eichmann replied.

Eichmann was asked to comment on an assertion in an affidavit by a former secret police officer, Walter Huppenkothen, that Eichmann "enjoyed a special status" with Gen. Mueller, head of the Gestapo.

Eichmann replied, "No, under no circumstances did I enjoy any special status. My chief of bureau (Mueller) ordered me to report to him exactly as he did other department heads and he also gave me his instructions."

Servatius asked Eichmann, "Were you able to conduct a personal policy in contradiction to orders by the foreign office?"

Eichmann replied, "If I were asked a certain matter, I could make proposals. But if these proposals were not liked, the foreign ministry simply ignored them."

Servatius submitted a number of documents designed to show that Jewish affairs officers in the various Nazi embassies abroad had to take their orders from the ambassador and not from Eichmann.

Asked whether he was responsible for making the Jews wear yellow star badges, Eichmann replied, "I think this came into force on pressure from (propaganda minister Dr. Josef) Goebbels and that the orders emanated directly from Hitler."

Eichmann charged Hans Globke, now West German Chancellor Adenauer's aid, with sharing responsibility for depriving German Jews of their citizenship and stealing their property.

Globke, now state secretary in Adenauer's office, was a senior official of the Ministry of Interior during the Nazi period.

Eichmann said he believed department No. 1 of the Ministry of Interior "under Herling (no first name) and Globke" took the initiative "in efforts to deprive Jews of their German citizenship and seize their property."

British Guardian Expansion.
LONDON, June 21 (AP)—The Guardian, Britain's influential Liberal daily, announced last night it will start printing in London Sept. 1, in addition to printing at its home base, Manchester. Until recently it was known as the Manchester Guardian.

Canadian Dollar Exchange Value Dips in Reaction to Discount Plan

OTTAWA, June 21 (AP)—Canada got a quick reaction today to its campaign to push the Canadian dollar to a substantial discount on the exchange market as part of a plan to boost economic growth.

The Canadian dollar dipped to 97½ cents in United States funds in foreign exchange trading in New York. It was the lowest level in comparison with the United States dollar since February 1952.

Canada's economic campaign was outlined by Finance Minister Donald M. Fleming in his budget speech last night.

Americans who want to spend money in Canada—for vacations or goods—may get a break. Their dollar is worth more than the Canadian dollar and soon may buy more.

But those Americans who want to sell goods in Canada or who withdraw dividends from investments in that country may lose money. The dollar they bring out may not be worth a dollar on the United States market.

The dollar campaign was just part of Fleming's recovery program. In addition, it wiped out the 7½ per cent excise levy on automobiles and gave corporations new incentives to modernize their plants and set up scientific research.

Fleming, leaving all tax rates unchanged, held no immediate hope of recovery from deficit financing. He forecast a $630,000,000 deficit, Canada's fifth in a row and a peacetime record total.

The big news in his budget was the decision to use the exchange fund administered by the Bank of Canada to buy United States dollars and thus depress the Canadian dollar's exchange value to a lower unspecified level.

The goal is to give Canadian producers a price advantage against foreign competition at home and abroad and help them.

ENGINEER SAYS HIS $400 TRUCK WAS LET FOR $2500

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP)—A House public works subcommittee expects to call four contractors today to reply to testimony that each made payments to four New Mexico state highway engineers.

The subcommittee is investigating allegations of irregularities in construction of the federal-aid highway program.

The four engineers, three of whom testified yesterday, said the payments started after they had been assigned to inspect state highway projects.

A fourth engineer, Lawrence E. Heathcock, now employed in Alaska, related in an affidavit to the subcommittee that one of the firms—the Jack Adams Co. of Santa Fe—had paid him $2500 over an eight-month period for rental of a 1946 pickup truck he said he bought for only $400.

KENNEDY HOLDS PRIVATE MEETING WITH EISENHOWER

WASHINGTON, June 21 (UPI)—President Kennedy and former President Eisenhower held a private conference at the White House today.

They met in Mr. Kennedy's quarters before their luncheon date with Japanese Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda.

Press secretary Pierre Salinger said he thought the Kennedy-Eisenhower discussion involved more than Kennedy's current talks with the Japanese leader.

Mr. Kennedy and the former President last met at Camp David, Md., May 1 when they discussed the Cuban invasion and the situation in southeast Asia.

This was Eisenhower's first visit to the White House since he left office Jan. 20. Mrs. Eisenhower went to the White House an hour later, in time for a luncheon given by President and Mrs. Kennedy for Ikeda and his wife.

Union Re-elects Beirne.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 21 (AP)—The Communications Workers of America yesterday re-elected Joseph A. Beirne of New York president. He has headed the union since 1947. Beirne was re-elected by acclamation, as were three of the other main officers.

COLOMBIA'S AID PLEA LIKELY TO BE $500,000,000

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP)—The White House sought today to halt any further shipments of molasses from Cuba, describing this trade as "not in the public interest."

The White House said negotiations are under way to provide the Publicker Chemical Corp. with surplus corn so that its New Orleans plant will not have to close down if Cuban molasses shipments are halted.

A principal product of the plant is industrial alcohol which can be made from molasses or corn. In addition, the plant produces cattle feed in which molasses is used.

In announcing the White House moves, press secretary Pierre Salinger emphasized that President Kennedy does not regard the molasses deal between Cuba and Publicker as in the public interest.

Tariff Law Action.

Salinger said the Department of the Treasury is looking into a complaint that the Cuban molasses is being sold at "dumping prices," or at a price not reflecting actual cost. If it is found that this is so, further shipments can be halted under tariff laws.

Meyer Feldman, a White House lawyer who has been looking into the matter for the President, said one objection to purchases of Cuban molasses is that it provides Fidel Castro's dictatorship "with some additional funds."

Salinger said 2,018,428 gallons of molasses unloaded near New Orleans yesterday represented only a small part of the original order placed by Publicker.

The shipment was valued at $201,842.40 by Customs agents, compared with an original $12,000,000 order, Salinger said.

important to Colombia's economic planning. The nation derives about 80 per cent of its foreign income from exports of coffee beans, largely to the United States.

Last year's crop sold for only $332,000,000, compared with the $500,000,000 brought in by the 1955 crop.

The Colombian four-year plan is designed to increase gross national product 5.5 per cent and to provide means of absorbing the 155,000 workers who come of age each year into the Colombian economy.

U.S. WILL CLOSE OR REDUCE 4 AIR BASES IN BRITAIN

Action Expected to Save $9,200,000 a Year and Free 7200 for Other Duty.

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP)—The United States will close or reduce operations at four Air Force bases in England starting next March, the Defense Department announced today.

The action, Pentagon officials said, is expected to bring savings of about $9,200,000 a year in operating expenses and free 7200 military personnel for assignment elsewhere.

The four bases, which cost the United States $50,000,000 to build, are: Alconbury Air Base, Bruntingthorpe, Chelveston and Sculthorpe. The bases now are used for reconnaissance chiefly.

Officials said the reconnaissance missions probably will be handled by fast RF-101 planes operating out of France.

Some of the functions will be taken over by others of the 12 remaining United States bases in Britain.

Pentagon spokesmen said the shutdown of activities at the four bases will "in no way affect our military posture."

They said the move was made possible by technological advances.

The Pentagon announced on March 30 its intentions to shut down or curtail activities at 73 bases—52 in the United States and 21 overseas. It did not identify the overseas bases at that time.

Pentagon officials said they expect announcements in the future on the other foreign bases to be closed.

NAVY BEGINS USING WORLD'S LARGEST SIMULATED OCEAN

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP)—The Navy began using yesterday what it says is the largest simulated ocean in the world.

Enclosed in a five-acre building in suburban Maryland, the basin is intended for testing ship models under realistic conditions. Such tests help the Navy predict the performance of full-scale vessels.

The basin, with a capacity of 12,000,000 gallons, is a rectangular concrete structure, 240 feet wide by 360 feet long, with a water depth of 20 to 35 feet. The test basin is equipped with 21 devices for creating waves up to 24 inches in height.

SENATE-HOUSE CONFEREES ADD $2,400,000 FOR MENTAL HEALTH

Sum Would Be in Addition to Basic Budget of $50,895,696 — Action Pushed on Six Spending Bills.

By HERBERT A. TRASK
State Political Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 21—Speedy legislative approval of six major appropriation bills was to be sought today after a compromise yesterday of Senate and House differences on spending for mental health. The bills call for expenditures totaling $983,342,807 in the next two years.

A joint conference committee broke a deadlock late yesterday when it agreed to increase the allotment for mental hospitals and training schools by $2,400,000 over the figures recommended by Gov. John M. Dalton and approved by the Senate.

The additional money was put on a conditional basis, depending on availability of new personnel and other factors. It would be usable only with the Government's specific approval.

Seeks Quick Action.
Senator J. F. Patterson (Dem.), Caruthersville, Appropriations Committee chairman, said he planned to seek Senate passage of the compromise bills today, so they can be acted on promptly by the House and sent to the Governor before the end of the week.

Patterson pointed out that quick action is essential because the bills carry funds to finance state government for the two-year period beginning July 1.

The key issue in the fight on appropriations centered on the Senate's refusal to approve House increases in mental health funds amounting to $5,434,654 more than Gov. Dalton recommended in his executive budget.

Under the compromise, the division of mental diseases and its seven institutions will receive basic operating funds of $50,895,696, the amount recommended by the Governor and approved by the Senate. However, the conference committee voted to give the division an additional lump appropriation of $2,400,000 for new personnel and other operating expenses at any of the seven institutions.

To Start Program.
Senator Patterson and Representative Paul M. Berra (Dem.), St. Louis, House Appropriations Committee chairman, explained that this special allotment is intended to permit a start on the 10-year improvement program formulated by the Missouri Mental Health Commission and Dr. Addison M. Duval, division director.

"Whenever the division has an opportunity to secure additional trained psychiatrists or expand its operations at any of the institutions, the necessary money will be available from this fund, subject to the approval of the Governor," Patterson said.

He reported that Gov. Dalton had agreed to the compromise allotment.

The conference committee restored a House-approved appropriation of $1,274,000 for expansion of facilities for the care of mentally retarded children at the Higginsville division of the Marshall State School and Hospital. The Senate had voted to eliminate this expenditure.

Duval Statement.
The division of mental diseases had requested 1961-63 biennial operational allotments of $60,120,430, or more than $9,000,000 above the amount the Governor recommended.

In a statement, Dr. Duval said state mental health leaders had done their best to present the division's needs to the public and the Legislature.

"Apparently," he said, "the Legislature felt it could not find the money to fully finance the first step in our 10-year program. We will do our best with the funds proposed to make as much progress as possible in the next two years, with the hope that more money will be provided by the next General Assembly."

Little Difficulty.
The Senate-House conference committee had little difficulty in reaching agreements on disputed allotments for other state departments and programs. In general, the conferees agreed to Senate changes in the House-approved bills which closely follow the Governor's budget recommendations.

Patterson and Berra said the joint committee followed the policy of providing sufficient funds for all state departments to finance a 5 per cent salary increase for their employees. The increases will cover merit system workers as well as patronage employees.

Funds for additional employees, other than those in the mental institutions, were allowed in only two instances. The conference committee voted about $100,000 to staff for prisoners at the old Fordland Air Force Base in Webster county. Funds were approved also for the hiring of three additional state parole and probation officers.

Highway Dept. Funds.
One of the other compromise bills carries $452,196,123 to finance various state executive departments, including the state Highway Department. The allotments include $220,000,000 in state funds and $160,000,000 in federal grants for highway construction and maintenance.

Another proposed expenditure of $320,805,215 to support various public health and welfare programs. The largest allotments are $94,847,935 in state funds and $189,611,935 in federal grants for old age assistance, aid to dependent children and the disabled, direct relief and pensions for the blind.

Compromise expenditures of $63,591,176 for operation of state-supported universities and colleges were proposed in another measure.

The other bills carry $55,464,056 for operation of the Department of Revenue, which collects all state taxes, and $22,484,233 for various capital improvements, including new buildings, repairs and additions.

3 Bills Passed.
The Legislature already has passed three major fund bills carrying $269,664,268. If the conference committee bills are passed, as expected, the total state allotment in the nine major bills will be $1,253,007,075, a record. This is about $1,300,000 less than the total in the Governor's budget.

Still pending is the omnibus appropriation bill, which will authorize miscellaneous expenditures required as the result of last-minute enactment of bills. Patterson said he did not think this bill would propose expenditures of more than $5,000,000.

THREE NAMED IN NARCOTICS INDICTMENTS BY U.S. JURY

Three men were named in narcotics indictments returned yesterday by the United States district court grand jury. Willie Frank Foster, operator of a poolroom at 1901 Lucas avenue, was charged in six counts with sale or possession of heroin. Leon Kenneth Pope, 5900 block of Wabada avenue, was named in four counts of an indictment with sale, or possession of heroin.

Earl (Nappy Cap) Williams, a former convict, was charged with possession and transportation of heroin. Williams and a woman companion were arrested at Lambert-St. Louis Field last Thursday night following their return from Chicago with a package of heroin worth $5000 in the illegal drug traffic.

SAFETY EXPERT OPPOSES CHANGE IN BUILDING CODE

Fire Protection Man Says Proposed Electrical Amendment Is Not Needed.

A proposed electrical workers' amendment to the building code requiring that metallic conduit be used in all large St. Louis buildings would be "costly and unnecessary," Merwin Brandon, chairman of the electrical section, National Fire Protection Association, said here today.

"There is no justification from a safety standpoint to add the conduit requirement to the building code," said Brandon. "In my estimation, it is not in the public interest."

Local 1 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers sponsored the amendment to the new building code. It was passed by the Board of Aldermen but vetoed early this month by Mayor Raymond R. Tucker. Aldermen are scheduled to consider the veto Friday.

'Make-Work' Legislation.
Brandon, who addressed a meeting at the Pope Pius XII Library, described the amendment as "make-work, special-interest" legislation. The meeting was sponsored by the city redevelopment committee of the League of Women Voters.

The conduit requirement is not part of the National Electrical Code, which was written by the National Fire Protection Association.

"The uniformity of the code has permitted the electrical industry to expand as it has," Brandon said. "Uniformity will be lost if the building code in one city differs from that of another."

Brandon said both contractors and labor profit from use of metallic conduit because more work is required to install it. Records kept by the Fire Protection Association do not indicate it is safer, he added.

Will Last Longer.
Plastic non-metallic sheath conduit will last longer than metal, he said, and some has been in use more than 30 years without being impaired.

The National Electrical Code, which was used as the basis of electrical provisions in the city building code, requires conduit where necessary, Brandon said. He pointed out that the proposed amendment would require its use to cover low-voltage wiring such as thermostats and doorbells.

Charles H. Zurheide, chairman of the electrical subcommittee of the Mayor's code committee, showed the audience electrical items involved in the controversy. He had sections of plastic and metallic conduit and a wall socket. The proposed amendment would make it necessary for a householder to obtain a city permit and hire an electrician to replace the socket, he said.

Insurance Board's Stand.
B. G. Gregory, executive secretary of the Insurance Board of St. Louis, said at the meeting his organization considered the present code adequate.

An inter-communication office system would have to be placed in metal conduits under the proposed amendment, he said, and maintenance of all installations of electrical conductors would be required.

A section of the amendment proposing permits to make repairs and city inspections after repairs would cost St. Louis industry many extra dollars, he said.

"We feel that safety requirements are adequate in the National Electrical Code and safe-

NEW CONGRESS REDISTRICTING BILL ADVANCED

House Committee Votes Out Substitute for Measure Which Senate Has Passed.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 21—A congressional redistricting bill which opponents said was gerrymandered to favor the Democratic party was reported favorably today by a special House committee.

It was offered as a substitute for one passed by the Senate which virtually assures Republicans of at least one of the 10 new districts, Missouri now has 11 Representatives in Congress, but is losing one as a result of last year's census.

Principal changes in the House committee plan would take some counties from the old Seventh District, normally Republican, and place them in the Tenth, normally Democratic.

It would also switch some normally Democratic counties from the old Eleventh into the Seventh. The Eleventh would be eliminated. Result would be that Democrats would have a good chance of winning all 10 seats, politicians said.

Some Democratic leaders of the House favor the Senate plan. They said there was a possibility that the House would reject its own committee's substitute and adopt the Senate version.

The House committee substitute would place Representative Morgan Moulder, Eleventh District Democrat, in the same district with Representative Durward Hall, Seventh District Republican. Under the Senate plan Moulder would be in the same district with another Democrat—Richard H. Ichord.

The House plan would make no change in district lines the Senate proposed for St. Louis and St. Louis county.

House leaders said that if the House does pass its own bill, there was a likelihood that the Senate would reject it and the whole question would be left to a joint conference committee. If new district lines are not set at this session of the Legislature, all of the state's Congressmen will run at large in 1962.

Factors would not be increased by the addition of the amendment," Gregory said. "We are in favor of the Board of Aldermen sustaining Mayor Tucker's veto."

Other panel speakers were Donald K. Ross and Bengt F. Friberg, consulting electrical engineers. Ross said the amendment reduces the types of wiring about one half. Friberg said electrical installation represents 10 per cent of the cost of modern building. Provisions of the amendment tend to increase the cost, Friberg asserted.

About 100 persons, including some city officials, attended the meeting. A question and answer session followed the talks.

Two Negro Baptist Leaders Disagree on Freedom Riders

THE REV. DR. MARTIN LUTHER KING — By a Post-Dispatch photographer. DR. JOSEPH H. JACKSON

Two Negro Baptist leaders disagreed in interviews here today about the merits of the Freedom Riders' efforts to eliminate racial segregation in interstate transportation facilities in the South.

The Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King of Atlanta, Ga., an advocate of nonviolent defiance of segregation laws and customs, defended the Freedom Riders, but the Rev. Dr. Joseph H. Jackson of Chicago, president of the National Baptist Convention Inc., questioned the value of their campaign.

Both men are here for the annual meeting of the Sunday school auxiliary of the National Baptist Convention. The Rev. Dr. King is vice president at large of the Sunday school auxiliary.

Purpose of Riders.
The Rev. Dr. King told a reporter that "the purpose of the Freedom Riders is to bring about integration of all facilities and to be able to arrive at a bus, railroad or air terminal unmolested and without undergoing any humiliating experience."

He said he believed Negroes should continue to test segregated transportation facilities until their goal is achieved, though faced with the prospect of an indefinite period of arrest. Thus far, 131 Freedom Riders have been arrested at Jackson, Miss.

The Rev. Dr. King said the Interstate Commerce Commission has been asked to issue an order reaffirming the prohibition against segregation at transportation terminals. "Once that comes, it will clear the matter up once and for all," he remarked.

For Different Approach.
The Rev. Dr. Jackson emphasized he was not "condemning the Freedom Riders, but said "my approach would be different."

"Having lived in Mississippi," he said at a press conference, "I know that Negroes going to jail won't touch the conscience of the segregationists. Their moral sensitivity is not that tender."

The Rev. Dr. Jackson said that "where the laws of a state are in conflict with federal law, the state must obey the federal law. "But this conflict must be cor-

P.S.CO. NOTIFIES PSC OF STUDENT FARE BAN SEPT. 1

Elimination of 15-Cent Rate Had Been Authorized by State Last December.

Formal notification of elimination of the 15-cent student fare, effective Sept. 1, was filed yesterday by St. Louis Public Service Co. with the Missouri Public Service Commission.

The commission authorized elimination of the student rate in an order issued last December. The filing of the tariff yesterday was in compliance with that order.

Effective date of the change was set by the commission as Sept. 1 to coincide with the start of the school year.

Letters were sent earlier this year by the company to officials of all boards of education and school districts where reduced student rates have been in effect. The letters notified them that the fare would be discontinued on Sept. 1, under authority of the commission, unless some plan of subsidy could be arranged.

"Since no such plan has been presented to the company, and the present school year has now come to an end, the company is filing this tariff," a spokesman for the company said.

The reason given by the commission for deferring the effective date of the student fare increase was to prevent higher living costs in the school year which has just ended.

Two of the five commissioners, E. L. McClintock and D. D. McDonald, dissented on the delay and said in a separate statement: "The reason for refusing to permit this increase to become effective at this time is so illogical and unsound that we cannot agree..."

The three commission members concurring in the order were Chairman Tyre W. Burton, William Barton and Frank J. Iuen.

CATHOLIC AWARD FOR KMOX

Radio Station KMOX has been presented the Catholic Broadcaster's Association's Golden Bell Award, it was announced today by Robert Hyland, CBS vice president and KMOX general manager.

This is the third consecutive year that the station has won the award. It was presented for the "most outstanding radio program" produced throughout the nation. The winning show was the "At Your Service" program on "Catholic-Baptist Debate."

DILLON SAYS WAR COULD UPSET HIS FORECAST

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP) —Secretary of the Treasury C. Dillon said today that his optimistic forecast for the American economy "did not take into account that we might be at war with the Soviet over Berlin in six months."

Under questioning by the House Foreign Affairs Committee, Dillon explained that his views on the economy, given at the National Press Club yesterday, were "based on a continuation of the cold war," rather than on the development of a major crisis.

His view, as stated in the address, is that there is hope for a boom by the end of 1962 that would justify a cut in tax rates.

Dillon, appearing in connection with the foreign aid bill, got involved in the Berlin situation through questioning by Representatives Robert B. Chipperfield (Rep.), Illinois, and Wayne L. Hays (Dem.), Ohio.

Hays questioned whether Soviet Premier Khrushchev "would think we are going to do anything serious about Berlin" after reading proposals by the Senate Democratic leader, Senator Mike Mansfield of Montana, to make Berlin a free city.

Hays said Mansfield "is apparently unaware of Soviet semantics and does not understand that the Russians mean something different when they talk about a 'free' city."

Hays said it is unlikely Khrushchev will take American talk very seriously "when we are taking no positive posture."

He said the Russian leader "might think we mean business if we sent two more divisions to Germany and added air strength in England instead of closing down bases there."

Dillon said "Berlin is essential" but declined to be drawn into a discussion of what the United States intends to do about the divided city within Communist East Germany.

The remark about possible war came in response to a question from Chipperfield.

Mentioning Dillon's economic speech yesterday, and the fact that the Treasury Secretary was before the committee talking about a big general foreign aid plan, Chipperfield asked if both matters are not "pretty academic" when Russian moves have made it clear "we're going to be in big trouble over Berlin in a few months anyway."

RUSSIA, RED CHINA SIGN ECONOMIC, TECHNICAL PACT

© New York Times News Service
MOSCOW, June 21—The Soviet Union and Communist China have signed a new agreement for economic, scientific and technical co-operation.

There was no indication in the brief announcement made yesterday that Red China had been pledged the large-scale aid needed to relieve its economic plight. Pravda, the Communist party newspaper gave no details of the agreement. Its report was on an inside page.

Kuo Cho-Sin, vice chairman of Peiping's state planning committee, apparently was in Moscow for two months negotiating secretly for economic help. His country's agriculture has been devastated by floods and drought and its program of industrialization disrupted.

To make up the food deficit, Peiping has been compelled to expend its foreign exchange in the West. It has contracted this year with Canada and Australia for nearly $500,000,000 in grain deliveries through the end of 1963.

TRUMAN TV SHOW PLAN REJECTED, SUSSKIND SAYS

NEW YORK—June 21 (AP)—Television producer David Susskind testified today that the three major television networks have rejected a proposal for former President Harry S. Truman to do 26 one-hour shows.

Susskind told a hearing conducted by the Federal Communications Commission that the programs would have related the story of Truman's administration.

He said it was ironic that, while the networks turned down the project "for various reasons," the head of the British Broadcasting Co. had expressed an interest in rights to the program in England.

Plans to Go Ahead.

Susskind said he intended to go ahead with the project, finance it himself, and "if necessary, go from city to city, station to station, and sell it individually."

Susskind said television programming reached a new low this year—and that it will be still lower next season.

"I tremble for next year," he told the FCC. The commission is inquiring at the hearing into creative aspects of network programming.

Susskind said he spoke as a father, a citizen and as a person in the television industry.

"This year marked the nadir," he said. Then he declared that next season's scheduling would "make this year look like the golden age of television."

Year of the Western.

He said this was "the year of the western and private eye" with the "stirring exception" of public affairs programs that constituted 10 per cent of the schedules.

The remaining 90 per cent, he said, was "a travesty, a waste, a gigantic comic strip, a huge hum."

Asked what brought about the current state, Susskind said the reasons were many, including "the death-grip on programming by the networks where formerly it was possible to sell to a host of advertisers or agencies."

3 Make Decisions.

He testified that the three men who head the major networks make all programming decisions. He said they must be sold on the concept of a program or "you simply don't get on the air."

He said "this vice was born of payola and the quiz scandals" in the sense that those in charge took the view that "we'll take over control so it won't happen again."

Another reason, he said, was "the mad race for ratings... almost paranoid."

Carbon-Copy Psychology.

Still another reason, Susskind said, was "the carbon-copy psychology" of "running with the pack in imitation of successful programs."

Susskind, who said he had produced between 700 and 1000 television programs, picked up a newspaper listing today's television programs.

"The daytime schedule is a scandal," he said. "The nighttime schedule is a disgrace."

He said the American Broadcasting Co. put on "the cheapest and most vicious type of programs" and that the other networks imitated ABC.

Takes FCC to Task.

Susskind said the FCC was partly responsible for the state of television through inertia and inefficiency and "failing to call licensees to task, failing to do the job of inspection."

David Davidson, national chairman of the Writers Guild of America said earlier that some playwrights who formerly wrote scripts for major television programs are turning out soap operas under assumed name.

400,000-Ton Temple to Be Lifted 186 Feet, Above Dammed-Up Nile

CAIRO, June 21 (AP) — The United Arab Republic has approved a plan to jack up the ancient temple of Abu Simbel to safety from Nile waters that will rise behind the Aswan high dam, Culture Minister Sarwat Okasha announced today.

Prof. Pietro Gazzola and a team of Italian engineers worked out the plan to preserve the 400,000-ton temple built by Pharaoh Rameses II and a smaller structure dedicated to his queen, Nefere.

Okasha said lifting Abu Simbel temple will cost $70,000,000. In addition, he said, plans are being made to save other temples, such as Philae and Kalabsha in Nubia, at a cost of $30,000,000.

Egyptians hope the United States will pay at least half the cost with funds from the sale of American surplus agricultural products in Egypt. Okasha said Egypt will allocate about $10,000,000 in the next seven years for the project.

He told a press conference that work on raising the temple will start next January and the project will be completed by 1968. Waters are expected to begin rising in November 1964. Gazzola and his team proposes that the massive stone structures be lifted 186 feet with 300 hydraulic jacks to a safe spot on the granite hills of the Nile's eastern bank.

Abu Simbel is more than 900 miles up the Nile. The temple of Rameses, built about 1265 B.C., is best known for its four massive statues of Rameses standing 67 feet high at the edge of the river.

The temple halls run back 200 feet inside the cliff, enclosing rows of statues 30 feet tall and wall paintings of rare beauty. Both it and the queen's temple would have to be cut from rock to provide footing for the jacks.

OFFICE ROBBED THIRD TIME IN 18 MONTHS; $100 STOLEN

About $100 in cash was stolen from a safe in the office of the Hereford Concrete Products, Inc., 6655 Rockbrook avenue, Wellston, in the night, police reported today.

There were no signs of forced entry to the building, but an inside office door had been forced open and the safe door pried off, police said. An adding machine valued at $300 and a check writing machine valued at $100 also were missing.

An official of the firm said it was the third time in 18 months that the place had been entered by burglars.

U.S. TO LEND $40,000,000 TOWARD DAM IN FORMOSA

WASHINGTON, June 21 (UPI) —The United States signed a $40,000,000 loan agreement today to help build a 778-foot dam on the Nationalist China island of Formosa.

The loan was made by the United States development loan fund to the Taiwan Power Co. It will provide about 75 per cent of the foreign exchange costs of the Tachien reservoir project in Formosa.

The new dam plus an auxiliary dam will provide electric power and also irrigation and flood control.

DRIVER DIES AFTER HIS AUTO SWERVES AND HITS TRUCK

William A. Finke, 50 years old, died last night at Homer G. Phillips Hospital several hours after his automobile swerved and hit a tractor-trailer at 7900 North Broadway.

Witnesses told police that Finke's southbound car veered suddenly and struck the heavy trailer, which was being driven north by Carl Mills, 219 Nebraska avenue. Finke was unconscious when removed from the wreck. At the hospital he was pronounced suffering from cerebral concussion and lacerations of the arms and leg. Finke, a merchant, lived at 8551 Oriole avenue.

COMMUNIST PARTY ASKS COURT TO RECONSIDER

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP) —The Communist party petitioned the Supreme Court yesterday to reconsider its June 5 ruling the party must register as an arm of the Soviet Union.

At the same time, the party asked a stay of the court's mandate to lower courts making the ruling effective. The mandate is now scheduled for issuance June 30.

Attorney General Robert F.

Kennedy has said proceedings against the party would be started, under the decision, if the group does not register by Aug. 9.

son of Afton, told a reporter they had been assured of favorable action and were not present at the start of the hearing.

Schechter learned of Hickey's surprise request for a delay, and rushed to the hearing room to plead for prompt action. He told the committee, "This bill, applies only to St. Louis county. It is definitely something we need, although it is a weak bill."

He explained that the measure was a compromise of the views of the county administration and the County Municipal League, and said there was no need for a further hearing.

"There will be no possible chance to pass the bill if it is laid over for another week," he said.

Chairman's Comment

The committee chairman, Senator Floyd R. Gibson (Dem.), Independence, said there was no alternative but to honor the request of the sponsor, Hickey, for a delay. He said, however, the committee would act on the measure next Tuesday, and he thought there would be time to pass it by Friday, the last day.

Senators Schechter and Johnson said they would do their best to get it through the Senate before the deadline.

Fred Joseph, assistant St. Louis county counselor, attended the hearing but did not speak.

County Bill on Courts

A bill creating two additional divisions of circuit court in St. Louis county, increasing the number to 10, was passed today by the Senate, 29 to 0.

As previously passed by the House, the bill would have authorized four additional circuit judges in the county, but the Senate Judiciary Committee amended the measure to reduce the number to two. The bill now goes back to the House for concurrence in the change.

Senator Gibson, the judiciary chairman, reported there was a wide variance of opinion in the committee on how many extra judges the county needs.

The Senate passed, 31 to 0, a bill to create a state water resources board to formulate a long-range state program for water conservation, development and management.

The bill is a substitute for a House-approved measure which proposed establishment of a temporary committee to study this problem. The proposed bipartisan board of five members would become a permanent state agency. It would appoint an executive director, who would be paid $10,000 a year.

A Senate-approved bill to increase the maximum tax which might be levied in St. Louis county for support of the County Hospital from 20 to 30 cents for each $100 assessed valuation was approved in the House yesterday, and now goes to the Governor.

Representative Robert A. Young (Dem.), St. Ann, who handled the bill, said increased revenue is necessary for a 150-bed addition, new equipment and supplies, and for salary increases.

Another Senate-approved bill passed by the House and sent to the Governor would increase the salary of the clerk of the circuit court for criminal causes in St. Louis, James A. McAteer, from $8,500 to $10,000 a year.

The St. Louis Board of Election Commissioners would be authorized to use a cheaper method of printing precinct lists of voters under provisions of another Senate-approved measure passed by the House. Representative Paul M. Berra (Dem.), St. Louis, who handled the bill, said it would save the city about $20,000 a year in printing costs.

Another Pay Boost.

A group of war veterans, including the three soldiers who planted the Soviet flag on the Berlin Reichstag when the Russians captured Berlin, marched across the hall carrying the banner which once flew over the Reichstag.

security, from $10,000 to $13,000 a year.

The mileage allowance for sheriffs, county marshals and other officers charged with serving papers in criminal cases would be increased from 10 to 15 cents a mile, when the distance is more than five miles, under another bill passed.

The Senate passed a House-approved bill to give police authority to state park rangers. The measure must go back to the House, however, for concurrence in a Senate amendment which specified the rangers would have no power of search and seizure.

The Senate Judiciary Committee delayed action on bills to allow discretion to judges in deciding on joint or separate trial of defendants in sex crimes, and on conflict of interests.

end all the rights of capitulation."

Chuvikov was wartime commander of Stalingrad defenses and after the war he commanded the Soviet occupation forces in Germany. He is now Defense Minister Marshal Malinovsky's right-hand man as commander of Soviet ground forces.

Chuvikov's speech followed one by Malinovsky who said, "A peace treaty with Germany must and will be signed."

2000 in Audience.

The anniversary meeting was held in the marble-walled St. Andrew's Hall of the Kremlin before an audience of about 2000 prominent persons, including the diplomatic corps and foreign correspondents. Khrushchev and President Leonid Brezhnev, who were in active service as political officers during the war, wore lieutenant general's uniforms, covered with decorations.

Before Malinovsky's speech, a group of war veterans, including the three soldiers who planted the Soviet flag on the Berlin Reichstag when the Russians captured Berlin, marched across the hall carrying the banner which once flew over the Reichstag.

KILLS TWO, WOUNDS FIVE IN SPREE AT MALVERN, ARK.

MALVERN, Ark., June 21 (AP)—A man walked into the Arkansas Employment Security Division office today and opened fire with a high-powered rifle, killing two persons. He wounded five others.

He fled into a weed patch, still shooting wildly as he ran from the building. Police moved in on him and captured him a short time later.

He was identified as Schuler Joe, 22 years old, who only minutes before had walked into a store a block away, picked up a .30-caliber rifle and a box of ammunition. He put shells into the rifle as he ran out the back door.

Mrs. Thurber Owen, 40, a state employee, and Billy Joe Buie, 21, of Poyen, a bystander, were killed. Another state employee, Roe Akers, was shot in the shoulder. Norris McDade was hit in the arm and the side as Joe fled. On the street, Wayne Williams was felled by a bullet in the chest. Phillip Dedman was hit in the stomach and right hand. Later D. D. Glover was struck by a bullet.

THREE KILLED IN EXPLOSION AT INDIANA CEMENT PLANT

MITCHELL, Ind., June 21 (AP)—An explosion demolished a scale house at the Lehigh Portland Cement Co. plant today, killing a cleaning woman and two construction workers and injuring 15 other employees. More deaths were feared among the men who were completing work on the new scale house.

The explosion was believed to have resulted from an accumulation of natural gas. Bulldozers and cranes were moved to the ruins to remove debris from the injured.

Sea Strike

maritime union picket lines around American-owned ships on the three coasts since the strike began.

Federal mediators said they have never faced such a confused and complicated strike.

Nationally, the six-day-old walkout involves 85,000 maritime workers and nearly 1000 vessels.

The first of America's big liners to reach port since the strike began, the American Export Line's Constitution, docked today from Mediterranean ports with 807 passengers. Because of maritime pickets, longshoremen refused to help with the berthing and the task was handled by supervisory personnel.

Union personnel aboard ships at sea when the strike began were directed to remain on the job until their vessels reached American ports.

Adm. John M. Will, president of American Export, headed a group of 65 company executives who assisted passengers in unloading baggage from the Constitution.

Sailing Canceled.

Adm. Will immediately announced that the scheduled sailing of the Constitution for the Mediterranean Friday was being canceled. He said there was no evidence that the strike would end soon and that the company did not wish "to keep the passengers hanging on the ropes."

Meanwhile, the Navy announced enlisted personnel from the Brooklyn Navy Yard would unload mail from the Constitution and other American vessels putting into port while the strike is on. A spokesman said this was a routine procedure in such situations.

Due later today from European ports was the pride of the American Merchant Marine fleet, the United States Line's super-liner United States, with 1597 passengers. Presumably it faces the same fate as the Constitution.

For the first time, foreign shipping became affected by the situation.

ILA members had worked all night and early today loading the British liner Queen Elizabeth for a noon sailing. However, the union called its work stoppage before the job was finished. Mainly affected was passengers' luggage.

Other Vessels Affected.

Other foreign passenger vessels also were due to sail or arrive today, and apparently will be similarly affected.

Two Grace liners, the Santa Luisa and Santa Cecilia, steamed in from Caribbean ports and likewise had no longshoremen to help tie them up and unload them. Supervisors did the work. Negotiations between unions and management are almost at a standstill. A policy meeting of leading industry representatives was held last night at an undisclosed location, apparently to form plans for industry solidarity in the fight.

The creeping paralysis of the maritime dispute has spread around the nation, affecting numerous industrial concerns ashore as well as freighters, tankers and passenger ships.

As many as 30 port cities could come under direct effect of the walkout if it continues. Union and company spokesmen have given little hope for an early settlement.

DR. HENRY HILL HURD DIES, EAST ST. LOUIS PHYSICIAN

Dr. Henry Hill Hurd, a physician practicing in East St. Louis for about 30 years, died of cancer today at Christian Welfare Hospital, East St. Louis. He was 62 years old.

Dr. Hurd, a graduate of the St. Louis University School of Medicine, maintained offices in the Spivey Building, 417 Missouri avenue, East St. Louis. He served in World War I as a lieutenant in the Navy. In World War II, he was a Navy surgeon and neuropsychiatrist at Great Lakes Naval Station, and director of a Navy hospital at St. Thomas, in the Virgin Islands. He lived at 9902 West Main street, Belleville.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Mary McGune Hurd; two sons, Dr. Henry M. Hurd and Dr. James R. Hurd, both of St. Louis; a brother, S. Harvey Hurd, of Odin, Ill.; and a sister, Mrs. V. E. Tate, of Odin. Funeral services will be at 1:30 p.m. Friday at the Kurrus undertaking establishment, 2525 State street, East St. Louis. Burial will be in Valhalla Cemetery, Belleville.

MAN IS SHOT FOUR TIMES IN DISPUTE AT TAVERN

John Tyler, 3007A Rutger street, was shot four times today in a dispute with another man at a bar and restaurant, 1201 South Compton avenue.

Tyler, a diesel engine cleaner, was shot by E. Thelbert Rucker, 5100 block of Page boulevard, who is a bartender at the tavern, police said. The two men reportedly got into a dispute over Tyler's alleged interest in Rucker's wife. Police were told that Rucker shot Tyler after he tried to hit Rucker.

Tyler was taken to City Hospital with a gunshot wound in the face, two in the back and one in the right arm. Rucker turned over to police a foreign-made automatic pistol.

Refinery for Southern Rhodesia. SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia, June 21 (AP)—The Rhodesian federal government announced yesterday an agreement with the American Independent Oil Co. to build a $36,400,000 oil refinery between Salisbury and Umtali in the next two and a half years.

CONTEMPT ACTIONS FILED AGAINST DIVORCE LAWYERS

Citations accusing Carl J. Pursey, a St. Louis attorney, and Vernon R. Wells, a former St. Louisan now practicing law at Buffalo, N.Y., of criminal contempt of court were sought in petitions filed here yesterday. They were accused by St. Louis and St. Louis County prosecuting officials of coaching witnesses in divorce cases and filing documents containing information they knew to be false.

Wells was said to have represented both the plaintiff and defendant in cases heard in St. Louis and St. Louis county courts.

Circuit Judge John C. Casey ordered the attorneys to appear in his St. Louis court next Tuesday to show cause why they should not be held in contempt. In St. Louis county they are to appear Friday in the court of Circuit Judge Douglas L. C. Jones.

KENNEDY'S MOTHER DELAYED BY CROWD IN FLORENCE

FLORENCE, Italy, June 21 (AP)—Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy went to a party last night at an ancient villa outside Florence. The throngs outside were so great that the American President's mother spent 35 minutes working her way inside.

The affair for 400 guests was given by Ernest Boissevain, a New York banker, and his wife to celebrate their purchase of the Sixteenth Century mansion, Villa Delle Rose, two miles south of Florence.

One concert at the party was given by a Florentine orchestra directed by Bruno Bartoletti, another by American pianist Artur Rubenstein.

GREENFIELD'S
LOCUST AT SIXTH

WASHINGTON, June 21 (UPI) — The Camboodian American Friendship highway was paved with good intentions and $30,000,000 of American money, but today it is falling apart.

The highway was built two years ago under the United States foreign aid program as a symbol of the friendship between America and Cambodia. It was supposed to represent the best in American methods of construction.

The road runs 130 miles from the capital city of Phnom Penh to the seaport of Sihanoukville on the Gulf of Siam.

Damaged by Rains.
Although completed only recently, it is falling apart in places because of heavy rains. Its original $15,000,000 cost has more than doubled.

Now President Kennedy is asking Congress for $2,500,000 to $3,000,000 more to repair damage that some experts say could have been prevented if the highway had been built right.

That was the story unfolded yesterday before a House subcommittee investigating waste and inefficiency in the foreign aid program.

Chairman Porter W. Hardy Jr. (Dem.), Virginia, said there was evidence of basic defects in construction and engineering of the road plus "serious deficiencies in the performance of a lot of people in the International Co-operation Administration." The ICA administers the aid program.

Hardy said it "seemed" axiomatic . . . that if United States prestige and foreign policy objectives can be established by a job well done, they can just as easily be destroyed by incompetence and sloppy performance."

He said the highway was intended to be the "No. 1 political impact project" financed by United States-foreign aid funds in Cambodia.

Builders Squabble.

Hardy said the American contractor and engineer squabbled so much that "eventually, to the discredit of everyone involved a gentlemen's agreement was entered into . . . to discontinue correspondence on controversial matters."

"This set the stage for laxness in supervision . . ." Hardy said. The contractor was A. L. Dougherty & Co. of Hammond, Ind. The engineer was the Michael Baker Engineering Co. of Rochester, Pa. Both firms will be asked to send executives to testify at future hearings, Hardy said.

WASHINGTON, June 21 (UPI).—President Kennedy named new ambassadors for Czechoslovakia and Paraguay yesterday.

Edward T. Wailes, Washington, D.C., was nominated for the post in Czechoslovakia, and William P. Snow of Maine was selected for the job in Paraguay. Both are foreign service officers.

NEW YORK, June 21 (AP)—The National Planned Parenthood Federation said yesterday one or more birth-control information centers will be set up in Connecticut as soon as possible.

There have been no such clinics in Connecticut since 1939, when a doctor operating a clinic at Waterbury was prosecuted under the state's anti-birth-control law. The United States Supreme Court declined Monday to rule on the constitutionality of the state law.

A joint statement from Mrs. Charles H. Parks, of Southport, Conn., president of the Planned Parenthood League, of Connecticut, and Cass Canfield, president of the National Federation, said:

"We welcome the recognition by the court," the statement said, "that the law has in fact become a nullity. Therefore, the Planned Parenthood League of Connecticut, with the full backing of the national birth control movement, will take steps as rapidly as possible to offer, under medical supervision, all contraceptive techniques including the rhythm method. . ."

France Aids Its Tourists.
PARIS, June 21 (AP) — The government has increased from $300 to $500 the amount of foreign currency a French citizen may buy before leaving the country and doubled to $100 the amount of French currency he may take with him.

WASHINGTON, June 21 (UPI)—The United States announced today it will lend $9,100,000 to Nicaragua to help in a five-year road-building project. The loan will be made by the United States Development Loan Fund and the Export Import Bank.

land, now isolated, with market areas. Some of the roads will connect the inter-American highway with the Nicaraguan national road system.

system serving the whole metropolitan area."

The controversy was touched off June 12 when Public Service Co. announced 11 express bus lines will use the Mark Twain Expressway when it opens. These include five new lines.

One of the new lines, to be known as Lucas-Hunt, would provide Public Service Co. transportation to Dellwood for the first time. This line would operate from Chambers road and West Florissant southeast to Lucas and Hunt road, south to Lillian avenue and east to the Expressway Interchange at Jennings Station road. Another line would step up service to Ferguson.

"If this type of operation is allowed," Krupp said, "it will seriously hamper transportation in Dellwood and Ferguson. It will take away the regular riding patronage from the area that Ferguson-Broadway has been serving regularly for 30 years."

"Ferguson-Broadway has invested large sums of money in equipment to give Dellwood, Ferguson, Berkeley, Florissant and the surrounding area better transportation service and better equipment with a full day's schedule, not just rush hour service.

"Any invasion of its franchised area by Public Service Co. for skimming off the morning and evening profitable business will seriously affect Ferguson-Broadway's operation, which can be detrimental to service it is rendering to the surrounding communities," Krupp stated.

The letters, sent to the mayor and aldermen of Dellwood and to the mayor and city council of Ferguson, said the proposed competition would force Ferguson-Broadway Lines to reduce its present service.

Krupp told a reporter that his company operates 52 busses and 20 of them go downtown to Sixth street and Delmar boulevard. He said this service, which accounts for 60 per cent of the company's business, would suffer the most.

"This is the most heavily-patronized route of the Ferguson-Broadway system, and helps to maintain other feeder lines which do not break even, but render valuable service to north St. Louis county," Krupp said. The Public Service Co. spokesman explained that while this firm has not previously provided service to Dellwood, it has operated in Ferguson for more than 30 years on an "around the clock" basis.

Permits for use of streets in St. Louis and suburban municipalities must be obtained by the Public Service Co. to operate the proposed new routes.

secretly somewhere outside New York. Using as bait an exit permit from Czechoslovakia for Hlasny's fiancée, the diplomat is said to have solicited the instructor's co-operation.

When they met Jan. 11, 1959, in Los Angeles, the United States said, the Czech diplomat paid Hlasny $600 and gave him specific assignments.

At a meeting in Monterey May 27, 1959, Hlasny is said to have taken $400 but insisted on the immediate release of his fiancée. She finally arrived in the United States in August 1959.

Fiancée Arrives.
The two men met three times in San Francisco, the United States note said.

The United States Government said it took no action against the diplomat because in contacts with other Americans he had "indicated an interest in discussing the possibility of defecting and remaining in the United States."

It was to pursue Navacalac's overtures toward defection, the United States maintains, that agents agreed to meet him for lunch June 13 at a restaurant in New York. There it became clear that his interest in remaining here was not sincere, the Government charged.

EAST ST. LOUISAN NAMED FARM OFFICER OF C. OF C.

County Delay on 4 Major Plans Endangers Growth, Varnum Says

Delay in taking four major steps has endangered the future growth of St. Louis county, Girard V. Varnum, president of the county Chamber of Commerce said yesterday.

Varnum listed them as adoption of a master land-use plan, adoption of an area transportation plan, construction of new airport facilities and a bond issue for public improvements.

His comments were contained in a letter sent to members of the chamber's county progress committee.

Urging that top priority be given to each of these problems, Varnum emphasized the extended periods of time in which each of them has been awaiting solution.

Five Airport Studies.

Federal agencies have called attention to the dire need for additional airport facilities since 1957, Varnum said. There are five airport studies pending, each independent of the other. "It would seem the St. Louis region might learn from the experience of the New York-New Jersey region, where many fine public improvements have been constructed by the New York Port Authority," Varnum said.

If the Missouri-Illinois Bi-State Development Agency, which was established in 1949 on the port authority pattern, were to take over and operate all bridges across the Mississippi and Missouri rivers within its region, it might then be in financial position to construct and operate airports, Varnum said.

Reviewing the several proposals for operation of a mass transit system, the chamber president pointed to the transit plan advanced by the St. Louis Public Service Co. last month as one which "seems to meet squarely every important problem . . . to provide a workable plan for efficient service within the region."

Urges Quick Transit Action. He urged public officials on both sides of the river to analyze the plan carefully and, unless they find serious faults, to approve it immediately.

Turning to the county's proposed land-use plan, Varnum criticized the delay in getting the plan before the St. Louis County Council for adoption.

He urged a major bond issue of between $25,000,000 and $40,000,000 to finance "much-needed" public improvements, warning that such a bond issue is imperative if the county is to "keep step with progress."

He listed requirements for more county highways and roads, additional facilities for county agencies, additional voting machines, new airport facilities, and additional park sites as among those for which bond issue funds are needed.

Disarmament

"As far as we are concerned, the talks are still open for negotiation," Dean said before leaving Geneva. "I called on Ambassador Semyon Tsarapkin (the Soviet negotiator) yesterday and urged him to withdraw his demand for a 'troika' system for running the control operation."

The so-called troika system calls for a three-man committee to supervise a possible nuclear test ban, with each member having the power to veto effective control.

It is Russia's insistence on a veto over controls that led to the deadlock in the nuclear talks.

Dean said he asked Tsarapkin to accept the United States proposal for 12 to 20 annual inspections per year to check on possible underground explosions, but that he had no assurance the Russians would agree.

The Soviets want to merge the nuclear test talks with the general disarmament discussions, a move President Kennedy opposes. The Russians also want 15 nations at the conference table—five Communist, five Western and five neutral.

Mr. Kennedy's advisers see the Soviets' 15-nation plan as a form of Khrushchev's troika system—and they fear agreeing to this in the arms talks would promote its chances at the United Nations and in international organizations where Khrushchev wants it adopted.

It was learned that Khrushchev told Mr. Kennedy at their Vienna meeting that Russia was willing a year ago to accept a single-executive control system on the A-ban machinery. But after seeing how U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld handled the Congo crisis, Khrushchev said, Russia now feels no man can be trusted to be truly neutral and the Soviet Union cannot let him control matters of Russian national interest and security.

Mr. Kennedy was said to have told Khrushchev, among other things, that the United States Senate would never accept a treaty with the troika idea in it.

United States strategists now believe the Kremlin is not interested in a nuclear test ban agreement. They advance several lines of speculation as to the reason:

1. Moscow now figures the overall power balance is in its favor, and thus is ready to push ahead on several cold war fronts.

2. The Soviets now believe they can advance their military power faster by resuming atomic tests.

3. The Russians failed to get Red China to agree to abide by a test ban agreement supposing one were reached by the Geneva participants—Russia, the United States and Britain. France has continued testing. Thus the Kremlin sees no value in a Geneva accord.

Washington thinking is that the Soviets will try to get the United States to gather world blame for breaking up the Geneva talks and resuming tests first, then Russia will resume tests. United States officials said the American delegation will continue to push for an agreement at Geneva even though accord seems impossible.

TRYING TO SPEED BILL FOR U.S. PARK IN OZARKS

By THOMAS W. OTTENAD
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 21 — An effort is being made to speed congressional action on a bill that would establish a large national area in the Missouri Ozarks.

Development of a more favorable attitude toward the project, which has drawn substantial opposition in south central Missouri, was said to be responsible.

As a result of the speedup effort, hearings on the measure, previously not expected to be held for several months, now are scheduled tentatively for early in July.

Supporters of the bill said it is not likely that the hearings will be followed by final congressional action this year, although they held out the possibility that the Senate might act on the measure. Holding hearings, however, would clear the way for an early effort to pass the bill next year.

113,000 Acres Involved

The measure would create the Ozark Rivers National Monument and make it part of the national park system. The monument area would consist of 113,000 acres of land to be acquired by the Federal Government about 175 miles southwest of St. Louis along the Current, Jack's Fork and Eleven Point rivers.

Making the move to expedite consideration of the bill are Senators Stuart Symington and Edward V. Long and Representative Richard H. Ichord (Dem.). The Missourians are sponsors of the pending legislation.

Ichord said it was decided to seek early hearings after substantial sentiment in favor of the proposed monument developed in the area affected. Support for the project became evident in a series of public meetings in the area last month, he said. The meetings, at which plans for the monument were explained, were conducted by representatives of the National Park Service and Ichord's staff.

He asserted that the monument proposal now has majority support in the Eighth Congressional District which he represents although some landowners still are opposed. The district represented by Ichord would encompass nearly all of the proposed recreational area.

Reports Not Received

Ichord and representatives of Symington have been making efforts to have hearings on the bill scheduled by the House and Senate Interior Committees in the week beginning July 6. There is some question, however, as to whether the hearings can be held at that time since necessary reports on the proposed legislation have not been received from the departments of Agriculture and of the Interior.

Members of Symington's staff and Ichord have been working with representatives of the National Park Service to iron out differences over some provisions of the bill. Ichord expressed confidence that agreement could be reached on most of the disputed points.

One that might not yield to negotiation is a provision under which the Federal Government would make payments in lieu of local real estate taxes on monument land for two years. The Department of Interior has rejected this proposal, Ichord said.

Noting that similar efforts have failed in the past in connection with other federal recreational areas, Ichord predicted that the attempt to obtain payments in lieu of local taxes would have to be abandoned.

The payments were intended to offset tax losses by counties in the area until expected new revenue resulting from economic development stimulated by the monument is received. Ichord pointed out, however, that the Federal Government has consistently opposed such payments.

Other Changes Urged

Department of the Interior officials have suggested three other major changes as well as some minor revisions in the bill. One of the changes would allow the Interior Department to exchange land it might acquire outside the monument for land within its boundaries. Land outside the contemplated boundaries might be acquired under a provision requiring the Government to purchase all of any farm of fewer than 500 acres in any case where part of the property is acquired.

The third change is a technical revision of a provision that would allow property owners whose land is taken for the monument to use the land for residential purposes during their lifetime.

Ichord said he was confident that differences on these three points could be resolved.

13 INJURED IN STEEL MILL

MORRISVILLE, Pa., June 21 (AP) — Thirteen steelworkers were hurt yesterday when an open hearth furnace flared out at the United States Steel Company's Fairless works.

A company spokesman said that a burner in the bottom of the furnace went out, then apparently re-ignited itself touching off accumulated gas in the furnace.

SPRADLING ASKS FOR TAX RISE FOR STATE SCHOOLS

By WILLIAM K. WYANT JR.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., June 21—An upward revision of state taxes is required if Missouri is to provide adequate public schools and other services, State Senator Albert M. Spradling Jr. (Dem.), Cape Girardeau, said here yesterday.

Spradling, president pro tem of the Senate, pointed out to the Missouri Association of School Administrators that state support for schools will still be below the national average, even with full financing of the Public School Foundation Program.

"Everybody says we are so dad-gum poor in Missouri," Spradling said as educators applauded. "We are a wealthy state. If we spread our resources on a state basis, we can do the job."

"We ought to have education to match the wealth of our state. The adequate financing of education in Missouri is long overdue."

Taxes and Income.
Missouri ranks thirty-ninth among the states in per capita taxes, Spradling said, but it stands eighteenth in per capita income. He said state aid to public schools, when fully financed, was $25 a pupil less than the national average.

"Missouri's conservative tradition, extreme variation in wealth, small school districts and constitutional restrictions only recently relaxed," he said, "all have contributed to a lag in educational expenditures, in relation to other states of comparable financial ability."

Spradling said Missouri ranked among the great and powerful state when measured in terms of production and resources, but he emphasized the state had been losing ground in recent years.

"Missouri's population growth during the last decade would seem to indicate," he said at the association's final luncheon meeting at the Student Union Building, University of Missouri, "that having about the lowest taxes in the nation is not, in and of itself, an open sesame to industrial growth."

California Situation.
Spradling contrasted Missouri's lagging growth with that of California, where he said taxes were high but industry and jobs were increasing greatly. He said taxes support good education, and industry wants good schools.

"Industry wants good, intelligent people," said Spradling. "Let's wake up to that fact. Missouri is going to have to wake up to its responsibilities, as far as taxes are concerned, to give our children what they should have."

Spradling urged school superintendents to be diligent in striving toward the goal of quality education for all children. He advised them to use every available means for calling public attention to the need for increased financial support.

"The people of Missouri do not want us to fall behind," he said. He was introduced by A. H. Becker, superintendent of schools at Marshall and vice president of the Missouri Association of School Administrators.

For an Open Mind.
Earlier yesterday, Robert S. Gilchrist, superintendent of schools in University City, recommended that school leaders keep an open mind on such innovations as the ungraded primary, team teaching, classroom television and teaching machines.

Gilchrist said all these aids, if properly used, should prove valuable. He emphasized that the yardstick to be applied against them should be their value in improving the effectiveness of instruction.

"I wonder if we are smart enough to use the new developments well," said Gilchrist. He said the world was changing so rapidly that schools were going to have a hard time keeping up. He urged that educators decide on values and goals, establishing these firmly before taking action.

VISITING GERMAN PRESIDENT WINS PARIS APPLAUSE

PARIS, June 21 (AP)—About 1000 Frenchmen and tourists applauded West German President Heinrich Lübke today as he laid a wreath on the tomb of France's unknown soldier.

Lübke is the first German chief of state to visit Paris since Adolf Hitler came as a conqueror during World War II. To minimize chances of an anti-German outburst, the ceremony today was kept simple.

Lübke drove through a side street to the Arch of Triumph instead of up the broad Champs Elysees as is customary on such occasions. And the band played only taps, not the customary "Marseillaise" and the anthem of the visitor's country.

The right-wing newspaper L'Aurore wrote in an editorial that it would refuse to deck its building with the German flag.

"Do not ask us to welcome the Germans with the same heart as we welcome our life-long friends," the editorial said.

INJUNCTION SOUGHT TO HALT ARRESTS ON CAB ORDINANCE

Suit for an injunction was filed in circuit court yesterday by the United Chauffeurs Association against police and the two city judges to halt the arrest and prosecution of taxicab drivers whose seating arrangements violate a city ordinance.

The petition asks that a 1959 ordinance which holds that it is unlawful for a passenger to ride in the front seat when back seats in a taxicab are available, be declared void. The association explained that shifting of passengers from front to back when back seat occupants alight "causes pandemonium in the streets and embarrassment to the drivers."

Judge John C. Casey ordered the defendants in the suit—Chief of Police Curtis Brostrom, Mayor Raymond R. Tucker and City Judges Rodney Weiss and Morris Rosenthal—to appear Thursday and show cause why a temporary injunction should not be issued.

LAOS PRINCES NEAR ACCORD ON UNIFIED ARMY

ZURICH, Switzerland, June 21 (AP)—The military strongman of Laos's pro-Western government announced today that virtual agreement had been reached on unifying the fighting forces of his nation's three rival factions.

"Some points remain to be discussed, but they are minor ones," said Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, after a working session of key advisers to the political princes now holding a summit meeting in this Swiss city.

Nosavan said the three sides agreed on most problems connected with integrating the country's armies. This indicated that one of the most important obstacles to agreement among the three sides had been virtually overcome.

It appeared to leave unsettled the problem of administering provinces now under military control by the pro-Communist forces.

Phoumi's statement was echoed by Quinim Phosena of Prince Souvanna Phouma's neutralist faction. "There are more reasons to be optimistic today," he said.

Phoumi Vongvichit of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao rebels acknowledged that there had been a "certain rapprochement," but he declined to assess the chances for success of the meeting.

In Geneva, 200 miles away, delegates from Western and Communist nations argued about ways to make Laos independent and neutral, with the Communists adamantly opposing anything that would prevent the Reds from taking over the Southeast Asian kingdom.

In Laos, on the other side of the world, officials of the pro-Western government in Vientiane reported that pro-Communist Pathet Lao forces were making probing attacks on the royal government troops and Meo tribesmen who withdrew from Padong June 7 after a Pathet Lao artillery and infantry assault.

Military sources in Vientiane said seven Pathet Lao companies also drove Meo militiamen from Mount Pou San, 20 miles north of the rebel-held Plaine des Jarres.

TREE CUTTER KILLED; HIT BY FALLING LIMB

James O. McNamee of Pacific was killed yesterday when he was struck by a tree limb when cutting trees in a wooded area of north St. Louis county.

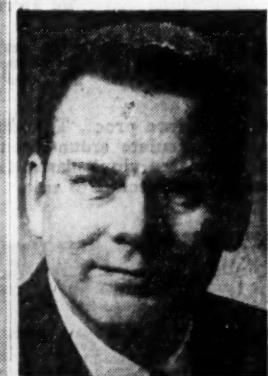

McNamee, 24 years old, was an employee of Bangert Brothers Construction Co., which is clearing land for a highway in an unincorporated area north of Bellefontaine Neighbors.

A tree which McNamee sawed struck another tree, jarring a limb off the second tree. The limb struck McNamee on the back of the neck and left shoulder, St. Louis County Coroner Raymond I. Harris said. McNamee suffered a broken neck.

MOVE OF PLANT CALLED OFF

Andrews Industries, Inc., has called off a planned move of its truck body manufacturing operations from St. Louis to Chester, Ill., Paul Andrews, president, said today. The Chester Community Development Association did not fulfill a contract with the company to build a 100,000 square foot plant by July 1, he said.

A spokesman for the development group said the company had failed to furnish a certified audit of accounts and had not sold $300,000 in capital stock as requested.

SENATE UNIT WOULD LIMIT FELLOWSHIPS

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP)—The Senate education subcommittee decided yesterday to put restrictions on the type of graduate fellowship awarded under the National Defense Education Act. Several members expressed dissatisfaction with some of the fellowships awarded so far under the 3-year-old act. These have gone for such subjects as folklore and church music. The subcommittee decided to specify in its report on the legislation that the fellowships be given to students seeking a Ph.D. to teach in such basic subjects as mathematics, history, foreign languages, English and science. Yesterday the group wrote into the bill a ban on award of the fellowships to divinity students or persons preparing to teach in divinity schools. Some members said such awards obviously raise a constitutional question. The subcommittee meets again Thursday. Senator Wayne Morse (Dem., Oregon, the chairman, said he was hopeful his group could finish its long consideration of the bill and approve it on that day. Adopted yesterday was a Morse amendment to make available to colleges and universities equipment and materials needed in the teaching of mathematics, science and modern foreign languages. The act now provides these for grade and high schools.

TRIBES ASK VOICE IN U.S. INDIAN POLICY

CHICAGO, June 21 (AP)—The first National Conference of American Indians called on the United States yesterday to give Indians a greater voice in determining Government policy toward them. The change was proposed in a declaration of Indian principles approved at the end of the eight-day conference of 700 Indians representing 200 tribes. The conference was organized by Sol Tax, a University of Chicago anthropologist. The redefinition of Government responsibilities was called for "to modify or remove the conditions which produce the poverty and lack of social adjustment as these prevail as the outstanding attributes of Indian life today." Abandonment of the so-called termination policy of the Eisenhower administration was among the prime recommendations of the declaration. The policy was adopted by the Eighty-third Congress and removes the Federal Government from the administration of Indian affairs, returning the responsibility to the tribes. Reorganization of the Bureau of Indian Affairs is among the major recommendations. The declaration calls for abolition of the bureau's area offices with the responsibilities of these offices to be turned over to reservation superintendents. Federal economic assistance to establish industries and other activities on reservations is high among the needs listed.

U.S. AND JAPAN AGREE TO JOINT ECONOMIC UNIT

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP)—The United States and Japan have agreed to establish a joint economic committee at cabinet level, United States officials disclosed today.

The agreement appeared to be a major outgrowth of talks between Japan's Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda and President Kennedy, which entered their second day today.

The high level committee would function in much the same manner as the present United States-Japan trade committee which meets annually on trade problems.

American officials considered the proposed committee a symbol of the trade partnership between the United States and Japan and an answer to critics who contend that military security forms the only real tie between the two nations.

The Canadian-American group brings together the top financial and trade authorities of both governments to consider the most acute problems between the two countries. The Japanese-American committee would perform a similar role.

The United States is Japan's top trading partner and the United States ranks Japan second only to Canada as the largest outlet for American goods and commodities.

The President and Ikeda held a 40-minute meeting this morning and later attended a state luncheon at the White House.

After the luncheon, Mr. Kennedy and Ikeda were to continue their conversations in a two-hour cruise on the Potomac river aboard the presidential cruiser Honey Fitz.

High United States diplomatic officials were pleased at the outcome of the first round of meetings between Ikeda and President Kennedy.

A long session on economic problems between Ikeda and Secretary of State Dean Rusk followed the first White House meeting.

the examination that the three doctors were "of the combined opinion that his (Mr. Kennedy's) progress is satisfactory and that he will be able to conduct his daily schedule without the aid of crutches in two days."

Later press secretary Pierre Salinger told reporters today that the President expects to use crutches only part of the time tomorrow. Salinger said he expects Mr. Kennedy to have discarded his crutches permanently by Friday.

Salinger announced also that Mr. Kennedy will hold a press conference at 10 a.m. next Wednesday, his first meeting with reporters in Washington since May 5. Mr. Kennedy held a press conference in Paris on June 2, on his European trip.

Salinger said the White House was not requesting live television coverage of next Wednesday's press session.

At his regular afternoon briefing yesterday, Hatcher reported that Mr. Kennedy had spent the afternoon working in his living quarters in the White House, rather than in his office.

He received his afternoon callers in his oval study. It was the second time since his back injury was disclosed that he has worked in his study rather than in his office in the White House.

UNDER-THE-TABLE PLAN BY CAROLINE FOR CABINET POST

Special to the Post-Dispatch

WASHINGTON, June 21—Caroline Kennedy has become so interested in the Cabinet she may not even run for President when she grows up.

This intelligence emerged today as a result of an editorial in the Columbia Missourian, a newspaper published by the University of Missouri School of Journalism. The editorial boomed the President's 3-year-old daughter for President in 1994.

Senator Edward V. Long (Dem., Missouri), sent a copy to the White House, observing that "Caroline is still a strong contender in our state."

After consideration at the White House, Lawrence F. O'Brien, a special assistant to Caroline's father, wrote to Senator Long:

"Such early support from Missouri is appreciated. However, Caroline is more interested in the Cabinet, spending much time in quiet reflection under the table in the Cabinet room."

TWO ARRAIGNED IN BLASTING OF TELEPHONE LINE TOWERS

SAN DIEGO, Calif., June 21 (AP)—A hearing to decide whether two self-styled revolutionaries should be prosecuted in Nevada on charges they blew up vital defense communications towers in the Utah-Nevada desert is scheduled July 7.

The hearing was demanded yesterday by Bernard J. Brous, 51 years old, who calls himself general and organizer of the American Republican Army, and Dale Chris Jensen, 23, dubbed his lieutenant.

Brous and Jensen were arraigned in San Diego by United States Commissioner Betty Marshall Graydon on a complaint that they blew up a tower at Wendover, Nev., May 28.

Their bail was increased to $300,000 by the commissioner on a new complaint filed by Salt Lake City authorities that they also destroyed American Telephone & Telegraph Co. towers at Cedar Mountain and Knolls, Utah.

Official Missouri Republican 1961 Manual Being Distributed

An official guide to Republican political activity is contained in the party's 1961 Missouri manual, which was being distributed today.

The booklet, of 32 pages, includes articles by Francis C. Corley of St. Louis, Republican national committeeman for Missouri; Mrs. M. Stanley Ginn of Columbia, national committeewoman; George K. Hohlitzelle of St. Louis, president of Missouri Republicans Unlimited, a fund-raising organization; H. Kenneth Wangelin of Poplar Bluff, state chairman, and Phillip A. Weber of Clayton, chairman of the Missouri Federation of Young Republicans.

Corley said in the article: "We Republicans—both conservative Republicans and liberal Republicans—are responsible liberals." He said there was "too much talk in Republican camps about conservative principles on the one hand and liberal ideas on the other," and that if properly defined the words liberal and conservative "are indeed compatible."

Corley said the federal income tax law is "a hodge-podge of gigantic confusion and inequality," and asserted that the entire tax code must be "intelligently rewritten at once."

The manual includes photographs and biographical sketches of the Republican members of Congress and the Missouri Legislature, lists of the chairmen and vice chairmen of county committees, and members of the St. Louis, St. Louis county and Jackson county committees.

HEAD OF G.O.P. WOMEN IS CRITICAL OF SENATORS

The president of the Republican Women's Club called today the opposition of two G.O.P. state senators to expansion of the state's mental health facilities "quite a blow." At a meeting in Clayton yesterday, her group praised two Democrats who supported the measure.

Mrs. R. Evelyn Hering, president of the Second Congressional District Republican Women's Clubs, reported telegrams were sent to Republican Senators Jack Curtis, Springfield, and James P. Kelley, Thornton, urging them to change their position when the mental health appropriation bill comes up for a final vote.

The group commended St. Louis Democratic Senators William E. Hilsman and Robert Pentland for their support at yesterday's meeting. The appropriation bill passed the House of Representatives but was cut by more than $5,000,000 in the Senate last week.

THREE DOCTORS ARE NAMED TO CIVIL DEFENSE GROUP

Dr. Curtis Lohr, superintendent of St. Louis County Hospital, and two St. Louis doctors were named yesterday by Gov. John M. Dalton to a 14-member Medical Advisory Committee for Civil Defense.

The St. Louis members are Dr. F. D. Alexander, 824 North Channing avenue, doctor of medicine, and Dr. H. S. Pickering, 6109 Natural Bridge avenue, an osteopath. The committee includes a dentist, radiologist, registered nurse, veterinary and a pharmacist.

Members of the committee will serve at the call of the Governor and work closely with state Civil Defense Director Dean Lupkey.

DAUGHTER BORN TO WIDOW OF ONE OF 7 MURDER VICTIMS

Mrs. Albert E. Reed, widow of one of the seven persons killed by two teen-age soldiers, gave birth yesterday to a daughter in Litchfield, where the Reed family lives.

Reed, 35-year-old radio repairman for the Gulf, Mobile and Ohio Railroad, was shot to death June 8 by George Ronald York and James Douglas Latham on their two-week, cross-country spree of robberies and killings that ended with their arrest in Utah June 10. There are two other Reed children, 6 and 3. York and Latham are held in Hutchinson, Kan.

MARINES TO MOVE FLAG POLE THAT IS IN HIGHWAY'S PATH

A detachment of Marines from the recruiting office in the old Post Office building will dig up the 22-foot flag pole at the home of Joseph A. McLaughlin, which has been used for neighborhood flag-raising ceremonies for about two years, and move it to his new home tomorrow.

McLaughlin's present home at 449 Dover place is in the path of the Ozark Expressway, and he is moving to 902 Dover. He has said he plans to continue the observance at his new address. He is 67 years old and a retired construction inspector.

Four Marines will dig up the pole and its concrete base and re-erect it at the new site.

SENATE GROUP APPROVES FUNDS FOR U.N. IN CONGO

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee approved without change yesterday a House-passed bill to appropriate $32,204,000 to help pay for United Nations military operations in The Congo.

The committee acted immediately after a brief hearing at which a State Department spokesman said the money was needed without delay "in view of the urgent cash requirements of the United Nations."

The money for the U.N. is in a $47,214,000 catch-all supplemental appropriation bill for the fiscal year ending June 30. The measure passed by the House would provide $14,500,000 for military annuities and small amounts for the Treasury and Justice Departments.

HOUSE LEADERS LOOK TO KENNEDY ON SCHOOL BILL

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP)—Administration forces faced a hard struggle today to rescue President Kennedy's school bill, which is all but swamped in the House.

Democratic House leaders looked to the President to do some personal pushing on the $2,500,000,000 measure.

Mr. Kennedy and House Speaker Sam Rayburn were dealt a setback yesterday when the Rules Committee refused to send the bill to the floor as Rayburn wanted.

Instead it voted 9 to 6 to delay any action until the House Education Committee sends along another bill, the National Defense Education Act, with loans for parochial schools included.

Bill Still in Trouble

(United Press International quoted Rayburn as saying today that he still thinks the President's aid to education bill is in trouble. Rayburn's statement was made after Chairman Adam Clayton Powell of the House Education and Labor Committee expressed new hope for the measure yesterday. Questioned today, Rayburn said his opinion has not changed.)

(Rayburn said, however, there is general agreement that the issue must be faced at this session of Congress and there is no disposition to put off a vote until next year.)

The success of the Rules Committee in blocking action indicated the potent forces allied against the Administration bill. The measure calls for a three-year program of grants to the states for either public school construction or teachers' salaries as the states desire.

Five Republicans Included

The nine-man majority was composed of five Republicans, two southern Democrats and two northern Democrats. Both Northern Democrats are Roman Catholics representing heavily Catholic districts.

The Republicans are Representatives Clarence Brown of Ohio, Katharine St. George of New York, Elmer J. Hoffman of Illinois, William H. Avery of Kansas, and H. Allen Smith of California. The southern Democrats are Howard W. Smith of Virginia, the chairman, and William M. Colmer of Mississippi. The Northern Democrats are James J. Delaney of New York and Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. of Massachusetts.

In opposition were Representatives Richard Bolling of Missouri, Ray J. Madden of Indiana, a Roman Catholic, James W. Trimble of Arkansas, Homer Thornberry of Texas, Carl Elliott of Alabama and B. F. Sisk of California, all Democrats.

Opposed to Any Bill

Republicans in the House are nearly unanimously opposed to any school bill. The opposition of the conservative Southern Democrats is heightened by their concern that a federal education program would hasten integration in public schools. Many Catholic members of Congress are under pressure from their constituents to withhold support from public school aid until they are assured parochial schools also will get some form of aid.

In addition, the bill faces heavy attack once it gets to the floor from members who oppose the provisions for teachers' salaries but favor the construction program. Others object to the formula under which poorer states will receive a greater proportion of funds than richer states.

Such formidable opposition has kept the House from ever giving final approval to a general aid to education bill. Supporters of the current measure are now agreed that only vigorous action by the Administration can change that pattern.

White House Meeting

House and Senate Democratic leaders met at the White House yesterday for talks that focused on the school bill.

Powell, who called Monday for the Administration to step up its backing, told a press conference yesterday he saw a change in the atmosphere shortly after the White House meeting.

Powell said Democratic majority leader John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, who had shared the view of the Catholics on the rules committee that the parochial school issue should be acted on first, has now agreed to let the public school bill be called up first—after both have won Rules Committee approval.

Powell said he hopes to speed up action by his committee on the Defense Education Act and get it to the Rules Committee next week.

What happens when the bill hits the floor, however, is anybody's guess. Powell's guess is that a school construction bill, but without teachers' salaries, will pass.

The Senate, without the formality of a record vote, shouted approval yesterday of the biggest annual farm appropriation bill in history.

The measure would provide slightly more than seven billion dollars to carry on the wide variety of agricultural programs in the year which begins July 1.

Passed yesterday by voice vote, the bill now goes back to the House which had voted about $115,000,000 less, although both versions provide nearly two billions more than Congress supplied for the current year.

Both versions, however, are slightly below Mr. Kennedy's budget requests—but that fails to tell the whole story.

The Senate listed its bill as $121,000,000 under the President's requests but this did not take into account an increase of $133,500,000 in loan funds.

In fact, the Senate failed to include $725,500,000 of farm loan funds and $397,000,000 in its total for the bill.

Loans Repaid

Most of these loans, to bring electric power and telephone service to rural areas and help certain low income farmers become land owners, have been repaid over the years.

As a result the Appropriations Committee does not count them in the new cash. The $397,000,000, chiefly from customs duties on agricultural imports, is available for farm programs without formal annual appropriation.

Excluding these millions and the loan funds, the Senate bill amounted to $3,967,451,500 compared with a House total of $3,948,466,000.

One main reason for the big increase in spending for next year was a shift of the foreign assistance program to a pay-as-you-go basis with $1,600,000,000 provided for estimated costs in the new fiscal period.

This is to meet expected costs of the food for peace programs,

The House called up for debate today a bill under which federal funds would be used to subsidize rental housing for middle-income families, build sewers, waterworks and other

DISMISSES SUIT TO BLOCK HOSPITAL

A suit to enjoin construction of the new Missouri Baptist Hospital in Town and Country was dismissed yesterday by Circuit Judge John J. Kelly at Clayton, on motion of attorneys for the hospital.

Eleven property owners of Town and Country filed the suit May 13, alleging that the municipality's trustees violated the zoning code by granting a special permit for the hospital without consulting the village zoning commission. The permit was granted in 1958 for construction of the 272-bed institution at Ballas road and U.S. Highway 40.

Judge Kelly, following a conference with attorneys and a brief hearing, dismissed the petition on grounds there was not sufficient proof to sustain the action and the plaintiffs had waited too long before seeking relief. Ground was broken May 22 and construction has continued. The plaintiffs contended that the hospital, which eventually will have 600 beds, tends to depreciate the value of nearby residential property.

Completion of the $4,500,000 six-story structure is expected in two years.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY GROUP OF DOCTORS IS DISSOLVED

The Mississippi Valley Medical Society has been dissolved by action of the directors, trustees and advisory committee at a special meeting in Quincy, Ill., it was announced today. Dr. Preston Hall, a St. Louis physician, was president-elect of the society.

The medical group, incorporated Nov. 20, 1935 at Quincy, decided that after all indebtedness has been paid, the cash it has in the bank, money in an endowment fund and all the equipment will be given to the Society for Academic Achievement, a non-profit Illinois educational organization.

In a resolution, the society asked that its name be perpetuated as one of the original sponsors of the Society for Academic Achievement, devoted to promote, "popularize" and reward high academic scholarship achievement in secondary schools in the United States and Canada.

X-RAY CHECK FOR WORKERS IN CONTACT WITH PUBLIC

An eight-day chest X-ray survey for food handlers, barbers, beauticians and others who come in close contact with the public will begin tomorrow. The survey is sponsored by the Tuberculosis and Health Society of St. Louis in co-operation with the city division of health.

The society's Christmas seal mobile X-ray unit will be in operation at 12 locations scattered throughout the city to be available to as many as possible of the employees of the 8000 St. Louis eating establishments. The unit will be open to the public, but food handlers and others who come into close contact with the public will have preference.

The mobile unit will be on St. Charles street near Eighth street tomorrow and on Friday at Thirteenth street and St. Charles. Hours are from 9 to 11 a.m., 2 to 4 p.m., and 7 to 9 p.m.

LADUE COUNCIL APPROVES BUILDING OF PATHWAYS

The Ladue City Council has approved plans for construction of pathways along sections of South Warson road and Clayton road, City Clerk Vince E. Komer said yesterday.

The pathways, of macadam-type composition material, will extend on South Warson from Conway road to Ladue road, and on Clayton from Conway to Dwyer place.

The Clayton pathway will be on the north side of the road. The Warson pathway will run along the west side of the road from Conway to the 500 block of South Warson, where it will cross to the east side. The Warson pathway will cost about $3500. No estimate was available for the Clayton pathway.

TOLL IN ALGERIAN CLASHES PUT AT 20 DEAD IN 2 DAYS

ALGIERS, June 21 (AP)—The toll in two days of clashes between Moslem demonstrators and French forces in eastern Algeria has risen to 20 dead and 60 injured, French government sources reported today.

Fifteen persons were wounded on the French side, the report said. No French dead were reported.

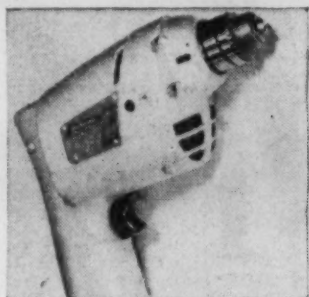

French sources said mob action in the towns of Djidjelli, Strasbourg and Taher were inspired by rebel agents. The violence was the worst since last December, when Moslem civilians first began all-out nationalist demonstrations.

Cuba May Be Communist State Without Functioning as a Classical Soviet Satellite Castro Not Likely to Be a Fledgling Tito—He Accepts Russia as Leading Exponent of Socialism, Which Yugoslavia Does Not.

By TAD SZULC

WASHINGTON, June 21.

IF CUBA BECOMES A COMMUNIST STATE—all indications are that it is moving in that direction—the result may be a new sort of Communism with its own peculiar features.

It would be closely tied to the Soviet Union but not necessarily functioning as a classical Soviet satellite.

The impressions gathered in Havana by this correspondent in a visit there last week add up to a picture of an emerging Communist system whose architects do not consider it necessary to follow entirely the systems in the European or Asian members of the Red bloc.

This does not mean that Cuba is imitating Yugoslavia in building a form of national Communism and that Premier Castro may be a fledgling Tito, as some observers once thought. Cuba under Castro accepts not only the orthodox Marxist-Leninist precepts for the eventual creation of a classless society but also the role of the Soviet Union as the leading exponent of Socialism, which Josip (Tito) Broz's Yugoslavia does not.

YET THE CUBAN attitude toward the Soviet Union is far more relaxed and casual than that of the old European satellites. The top Cuban leadership is thankful to the Soviet Union for economic and military assistance in the last 18 months, but there is no effort at establishing a Soviet cult in the manner of the European satellites.

In the course of the same lengthy conversation last week with visiting United States reporters, including this correspondent, Castro first declared that every revolution "must find its own form." Then he stated that he had chosen Socialism for Cuba as the most suitable system for developing the country.

These two concepts can be reconciled, Castro explained, because in accepting Socialism, Cuba does not deny itself the right to work out its own variations on the basic theme.

Beginning in 1959, the Cuban leadership played up the Castro revolution as a deeply Cuban and national undertaking, aimed at freeing the country from foreign, meaning United States, control.

ONCE THE FACT of the "Cuban" of the revolution was thus established in the minds of persons lacking any semblance of political sophistication, the Castro regime began shifting the revolution toward the extreme left and toward increasingly close ties with the Communist world.

Socialism became identified with the revolution, and the friendship of the Communist world emerged as the guarantee of the revolution's success as it fought for survival under the onslaught of its domestic and foreign foes.

Thus presented, Socialism and Communism could not fail to be accepted by the Cuban masses. Superbly conducted indoctrination—held in schools, factories, land co-operatives and militia units—did the rest.

Putting his arm around a grinning Soviet farm specialist, a "people's farm" foreman at the Camilo Cienfuegos farm in Matanzas province, where Castro took the group of United States reporters last week, expressed the sentiment of much of the rural population about Russia and Communism.

"Why shouldn't we like the Russians?" the foreman asked. "They send us oil and machines and technicians while you Americans send us bombs from the skies and saboteurs."

CASTRO MAKES the same point, but he goes far beyond this in showing his admiration for the Russians.

He is impressed with Soviet technological progress, and several times in the night and the day he spent with the reporters he repeated that Russia produced more engineers and scientists than the United States and that it was bound to catch up with it in production.

"What will you Americans do when that happens?" he asked. "You will lose your markets and you will then be forced to en-

Nevertheless, the Cuban regime is not inclined, at least now, to make Cuba a full-fledged Communist satellite.

Diplomats in Havana who know Castro well doubt seriously whether he is contemplating entering into a formal alliance with the Soviet bloc, by joining the Warsaw Pact or a similar alliance.

The consensus among those observers is that he prefers to maintain a more flexible relationship with Moscow because of the adverse impact that a formal tie would have on his efforts to persuade Latin America to imitate his social revolution.

THERE CAN BE no question that the Cuban economy is so dependent on the Soviet Union that with one stroke of the pen Moscow could push Cuba into collapse.

But Castro seems convinced—and this is the key to the nature of the peculiar relationship between Cuba and the Communist world—that the Soviet bloc needs Cuba politically as much as Cuba needs it economically.

Cuba was the only socialist nation to send a representative, Foreign Minister Raul Roa, to the conference of neutralist nations in Cairo this month. Apparently this is a symbol of the flexibility that the Cubans want to maintain in their peculiar relationship with international Communism.

CHRISTIAN DEMOCRATS WIN

ROME, June 21 (AP)—Italy's ruling Christian Democrat party won 37 seats in Sardinia's regional elections, enough for an absolute majority in the island's regional council.

The Christian Democrats received 46 per cent of the vote, an increase of 5 per cent over their total in the 1957 regional election. The Communists made a slight gain, winning 19 per cent of the vote, enough for 14 seats, compared to 13 seats in 1957. Principal losers were the Monarchists, who dropped from 10 to 2 seats.

Senate Group Heatedly Orders Drafting of Better Latin Aid Plan

By DREW PEARSON

(Copyright, 1961)

WASHINGTON.

IN A HEATED closed-door session, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee issued an ultimatum last week to foreign aid boss Henry Labouisse to prepare a better program for Latin America.

He appeared before the Senators with a proposal for spending only $51,000,000 on Latin-American projects. The Senators could hardly believe their ears.

"We are spending more in South Viet Nam than in all South America," declared Senator Symington, Missouri Democrat, whose son James recently completed a survey of hunger and poverty in South America. He found peoples living in filthy caves, and school teachers forced to use sticks to keep the children from stealing one another's lunches.

Senator Hubert Humphrey, Minnesota Democrat, complained that 50 per cent of our Latin American aid bolsters the governments of Haiti, Bolivia and Guatemala. He suggested that these three countries were poor examples of the effectiveness of American aid.

HE OBJECTED strenuously to another $12,000,000 grant to Haiti, whose government he described as corrupt and oppressive.

Frank Coffin, former Maine Congressman now head of redevelopment loans, warned that without the $12,000,000 Haiti might be taken over by a government which "doesn't believe in our way of life."

"Do you mean the present government is an example of our Continued on Page 9, Col. 5.

Tiny Opening By Khrushchev For Arms Pact

Speech to Soviet People at Least Raised Hope for Continuing Talks.

By JAMES RESTON

WASHINGTON, June 21.

BACK AROUND 500 B.C. a Chinese named Sun Tzu wrote the first known book on peace and war and provided therein a few tips on how to negotiate with the Russians.

Study war, he said, and learn from its melancholy history. Keep strong, but in any event keep cool. Never corner your opponent; always give him an out. Learn to look at things through his eyes. Avoid self-righteousness. Curve yourself of two common delusions: the idea of total victory and the idea of total war. Follow up any diplomatic opening, no matter how small.

Even today, modern military experts like B. H. Liddell Hart are still quoting the old Chinese maxims and the last one is relevant today because the Russians have provided the merest possibility of the tiniest opening in the current disarmament talks here in Washington.

THIS APPEARED, or appeared to appear, in Khrushchev's mystifying clarification of the Soviet positions on nuclear testing and disarmament last week. In his broadcast to the Soviet people, the Communist leader made three points which at least raise an interesting question.

First, he said there could be no nuclear test ban treaty unless the Soviet Union had a veto over the means of observing and controlling any such ban.

Second, he suggested that the test ban talks be merged with the more ambitious disarmament talks, tentatively scheduled to begin at the end of next month.

Third, he said, "If the Western powers agree to universal and complete disarmament, the Soviet Union is ready to accept any system of control Continued on Page 9, Col. 5.

Western Allies Stepping Up Discussion of Berlin Crisis

WASHINGTON, June 21.

THE UNITED STATES has scheduled intensive discussions with France and Britain and plans additional consultations with West Germany and all the Atlantic Pact allies to review political and military contingency plans in the growing Berlin crisis.

The American-British-French consultative group, which was formed two years ago and has met from time to time ever since, held a meeting here last week. There will be another meeting in a few days. Additional meetings are expected with increasing frequency and with diplomats of increasingly higher rank joining in the deliberations.

The tripartite consultative group normally has considered contingency plans for Berlin and has conducted its meetings on the ambassadorial level. Last Friday and Saturday, the sessions presided over by Foy Kohler, assistant Secretary of State, for European affairs, were joined by Jean Laloy and Evelyn Shuckburgh of the French and British Foreign Ministries, respectively.

Wilhelm Greve, West German ambassador, joined the discussion on the second day. The subject was broadened to include possible responses to the Khrushchev memorandum.

A WESTERN summit meeting is considered possible later in the year.

These moves developed in response to the latest Soviet notice of intent to sign a peace treaty with the East German government and turn over to it control of the west access routes to the former German capital.

The Administration, meanwhile, worked on a reply to the aide-memoire presented to President Kennedy by Soviet Premier Khrushchev in Vienna June 4. The draft is said to be based on the premise that the Berlin situation this year may turn into a real crisis.

At the very least, according to one view, the Khrushchev note has posed the "biggest East-West confrontation since World War II."

ADENAUER WILL VISIT WEST BERLIN JULY 12-13 IN SHOW OF SUPPORT

BONN, June 21 (AP).

CHANCELLOR Adenauer has decided to visit West Berlin July 12-13, the government reported today. It will be his first visit in more than a year and a half to the western sector of the city, which lies deep in Communist East Germany.

Adenauer's decision is regarded as a show of support for West Berlin's ties with West Germany. Soviet Premier Khrushchev has demanded that West Berlin be turned into a demilitarized "free" city that no longer would have any special relations with the Bonn government.

The Communists have stepped up their propaganda against governmental activities in the city, which they regard as part of East Germany. When a visit by Adenauer first was mentioned, the Soviet Union said it would mark "a high point in the provocations."

was reflected in the debate on Capitol Hill yesterday, as Senator Styles Bridges (Rep.), New Hampshire, called for a new Administration statement on defense of the city.

Bridges, who is the Republican policy chairman in the Senate, reacted sharply to the proposal last week by Senate Democratic majority leader Mike Mansfield of Montana for a free city arrangement for the whole of Berlin. Russia wants to make only West Berlin a free city.

Letters from the People

Let the U.N. Speak

The infinite patience and the reasonableness of the test-ban treaty text which we submitted at the Geneva talks have gradually gained the United States the upper hand in winning world opinion over to our side on this vital issue.

Whatever President Kennedy decides about continuing the conference there is a major move he can make which will add more friends for us among the millions who want and pray for a halt to atomic explosions.

Let us bring the whole matter before the United Nations and request a U.N. resolution based on the proposals we have made for a controlled, safeguarded test-ban agreement which would be fair to both East and West.

Our case would, of course, be presented by Ambassador Adlai Stevenson, who as a pioneer in seeking a halt to nuclear blasts, would be listened to with faith and trust.

In his own way he would lay before the member nations the logic of our promulgated procedures and how far we have gone to meet Russian demands—and he would review, step by step, the unending obstacles the U.S.S.R. has raised to make an agreement impossible.

If Russia defied a U.N. resolution it would really be branded as an intransigent enemy of disarmament. If it went along—why, wonderful. We have everything to gain and nothing to lose by presenting to the U.N. our side of the test-ban negotiations. So why not do it?

Of Cows and Elephants

According to the "loyal opposition" our present Administration is horribly at fault for the Cuban debacle. Yet I cannot help remembering how Secretary of the Interior Udall "let the cat out of the bag" when he disclosed the fact that the preparations for the Cuban invasion were begun with the Eisenhower-Nixon team.

Of course, President Kennedy immediately quieted him and manfully took the blame amidst the outraged squalling of the "loyal opposition." The outraged ones felt Secretary Udall was a blackguard to even suggest their Sacred Cows had anything to do with it.

Now—a member of the "loyal opposition," Republican National Chairman William Miller, is accusing our President of refusing air cover recommended by Eisenhower. My, my, but it seems to me I smell a rat. Considering the Sacred Cow's handling of the U-2 fiasco, that rat will turn out to be a great big elephant.

Oh well, it must be remembered that whenever a Democrat is in the White House, the "loyal opposition" can't seem to stop crying sour grapes.

B.L.

Failure Was Better

Every day the press and even some serious periodicals complain about our disgrace, some say disaster. In the failure of the Cuban invasion. But really, the disgrace and damage was not in its failure but in the very act of our Government's conceiving and planning secretly, for a whole year, war against a small nation which had asked us for help in the first place, had been refused rudely and then accepted help from others.

In the process of subduing Cuba, of course, we were going to kill off numbers of its civilians and destroy some of its long-needed and painfully built homes, schools, hospitals. Our disgrace now is not irreparable the way it would be if we had succeeded. It is still possible to sit down and talk with Castro and to salvage what is left of our good relations with the other Latin American nations.

Last Day in Court

On the final day of its 1960-61 term, the United States Supreme Court delivered several major decisions and one that might be termed a revealing indecision. Of all these the most important was the 5-4 reversal of rulings that allowed state courts to use illegally-obtained evidence.

In this case, Cleveland police had invaded a woman's home without a warrant and presumably to look for policy-game paraphernalia and other things, but instead arrested the woman for possessing obscene material. Justice Clark, with the support of Chief Justice Warren and Justices Black, Douglas and Brennan, ruled that Ohio could not employ such evidence in a criminal proceeding.

While the decision establishes precedent, it also marks another extension of a long process of bringing what Justice Clark calls common sense and morality to search procedures. Long ago the court ruled illegally-obtained evidence out of federal trials; last year it overturned the "silver platter" doctrine which had permitted federal officers to use such evidence obtained by state officers.

Now the court holds that the Fourteenth Amendment extends the protections of the Constitution against illegal search to the states. The contrary argument was based partly on the 1949 Weeks case. But even there the court held that no state could "affirmatively" sanction police invasions of privacy without violating the Fourteenth Amendment. If states cannot violate the Constitution affirmatively, they should not be permitted to violate it less obtrusively.

In a second search case, involving Missouri, a unanimous court overruled procedures adopted under this state's obscenity statute. In 1957, Kansas City police obtained a warrant to search several news distributing companies. They seized more than a thousand copies of 280 publications of which 100 were later found to be obscene in court. Justice Brennan held that the search violated due process under the Fourteenth Amendment. He noted that the search was begun upon the judgment of a single policeman, not of a judge, and the effect was to withhold for two months 180 publications not found to be obscene.

Justice Brennan also said that the Missouri Supreme Court, in upholding this procedure, mislaid its reliance on the Kingsley Books case in New York. New York issues injunctions against obscene material after a fair court hearing; the dangers of prior censorship are thus avoided and the law can reach both news dealers and publishers who violate the injunctions. By contrast, Missouri's law has permitted intrusions into constitutional rights without being truly effective against the worst purveyors of obscenity. The Legislature would do well to study the New York law.

With another unanimous decision, the court upset a Maryland constitutional requirement that public officials swear to a belief in God. Justice Black held that no American government can force a person to profess either belief or disbelief in any religion. He observed that the Maryland colonizer, George Calvert, Lord Baltimore, had sought to establish a colony free from the religious persecutions he had known as a Catholic in England. In any event, freedom to believe also means freedom to disbelieve or to doubt, and the Constitution permits no enforced religious tests.

The one case in which the Supreme Court refused to rule left undisturbed an old Connecticut law which makes it a crime to use birth control devices or for doctors to advise their use. Dr. C. Lee Buxton of the Yale Medical School and two married women patients argued that pregnancy could have dangerous results in the two cases. They contended that the law deprived them of constitutional rights essential to their welfare.

Announcing the 5-4 vote against intervention, Justice Frankfurter noted that Connecticut has not prosecuted anyone under the anti-birth control law in 80 years, save for one limited case. The majority obviously felt there was no justifiable case where no damage had been done. It is a peculiar reflection on Connecticut's law that it stands because it is not employed and can safely be ignored. Even there, however, the Supreme Court may act if individual rights are openly threatened as they were in the other cases.

Seasonal Sadness

There is a touch of sadness in the summer season. Starting today, each day will be a little shorter than the day before. So on and on until winter—of which each day's lessened portion of sunshine is a reminder. But many a flower is still to bloom. Many a fish is still to be caught. Most of the year's swimming weather is still ahead. School is out of mind, and the crops are not yet ripe. So perhaps the daily reminder of what's to come really is an exhortation to enjoy what's here for the enjoying. A touch of bitter to flavor the sweet. The reverse of winter's lengthening days which are a promise of what's to come. It's here now.

FAA's Catalog of Booms

Physicians as well as physicists have agreed that noise is a curse of modern life. If ways can be found to take action simply, easily and cheaply against any of the many excessive, unreasonable and unnecessary noises, they should be heartily encouraged by all hands. So the Federal Aviation Agency is to be commended for initiating a six-month flight test and community survey program devoted to the sonic boom which the jet age has brought upon our ears.

The sonic boom comes from a plane flying faster than the speed of sound. Shock waves surging from a plane's nose and tail cause groundlings to think they have heard a clap of thunder or, especially when windows or crockery break, an explosion. Thus far there is no sure way of avoiding this Jovian thunder. And as aviation circles expect the supersonic airliner to be with us within a decade, the booms seem likely to be much more prevalent unless a panacea is found.

With the aid of Air Force supersonic planes, the FAA will take time by the forelock, compiling a decibel catalog of sonic boom measurements at high and low altitudes with climb and descent maneuvers. FAA also plans to judge public reaction to the various types of boom. The gathering of reaction to this kind of noise that bellows down out of the sky should not be difficult. The big difficulty will be to decide what can be done about the noise. And if no solution seems likely, perhaps, just as the Air Force euphemized the boom by calling it the "sound of security," the FAA can refer to it as the sound of prosperity while continuing to seek a silencer.

Back to Castro

The facts of life, both economic and political, have compelled the Tractors-for-Freedom Committee to reject Fidel Castro's latest proposals for a prisoner exchange. On its part the private committee has replied with a take-it-or-leave-it offer that leaves room only for an answer by noon Friday.

What the committee proposes is to exchange 500 farm-type tractors for 1214 Castro prisoners of the Cuban invasion. That is what the committee has proposed all along. What Castro had demanded was 500 big bulldozers or small tractors costing a money equivalent which he put at $28,000,000, in exchange for 1173 prisoners.

Cuba's dictator cannot fairly be accused of altering his original proposal as far as bulldozers are concerned. He first asked for bulldozers, on May 17, and was offered tractors. But when he insisted on tractors to the tune of 28 millions, he put his exchange beyond practical possibility. The American committee could raise $2,500,000 for 500 smaller tractors; whether it could ever raise ten times that is doubtful. That is the economic fact.

Castro can rightly be charged with trying to back down on the number of prisoners he offered. Cuba listed 1214 of them. He has cut the number to 1173, and says he will only trade three invasion leaders for three prisoners held in American jails—one of these a child killer. The private committee cannot negotiate over men convicted by our courts, and the Government has no part in the prisoner exchange. That is the political fact.

Since May, Castro's maneuvers have shown his reluctance to go through with the deal. No doubt that is because a trade of men for machines would look bad to most of Latin America, and indeed his backing and filling must look even worse. Now, to insist on an impossible price as to the machines makes the arrangement unfeasible. To subtract prisoners for reasons of political bargaining is thoroughly reprehensible. The committee could not agree to such a deal. What Castro agrees to, if anything, should soon be clear.

Time to Ban Auto Fumes

The deleterious effect of automobile exhaust fumes has become an old story—and not only in smog-blanketed Los Angeles. The United States Public Health Service has indicated the fumes are a factor in cancer, respiratory diseases and eye troubles—and damaging to plant and animal life, too. Engineers have announced various devices to eliminate them. Yet the auto-makers have done little more than to say that such devices will be available in California next year—as required by law.

Why not elsewhere? A little less power or a little less chrome probably would take care of the cost. If Detroit does not show more concern for public health than it is up to local and state agencies to take action. Best of all might be the national legislation which Senator Maurine Neuberger of Oregon plans to introduce.

Continuation of a preventable health menace is intolerable.

A General's Word for It

We are sorry Gen. Anthony McAuliffe is sorry he said "Nuts!" to the German commander who wanted him to surrender Bastogne in the Battle of the Bulge. Nor do we agree that "all anyone remembers" about the heroic defense of his outnumbered paratroopers "is that one lousy word." It seems to us, instead, to occupy a strikingly similar relationship to the Bastogne epic that nuts do to a fine meal: a small but crowning climax to an unforgettable occasion. Given the time and place and, last but not least, given Gen. McAuliffe, it was le mot juste.

Undoubtedly other commanding officers might and probably would have phrased their reply differently. It is easy to imagine the thunderous rhetoric with which Gen. Douglas MacArthur would have dismissed the enemy's impudence in a few score well-chosen words. Gen. Lucius Clay could have dealt with the exigency in plain but noble Midwestern accents. Gen. Patton would have been enabled to scorch his adversary with a free-wheeling flow of indignation which would have baffled translation into the German to this day.

Gen. McAuliffe's response may not have been couched in the purest West Point prose. It may even seem to some to lack dignity; but if it did, it possessed something that was a great deal better. It expressed, in a nutshell, the spirit that held the garrison against forces many times larger till relief came. Should Gen. McAuliffe be sorry he said it? Nuts!

Poor Package for Voters

The Missouri Legislature has completed action on its highway package plan, and it is a poor package. Nevertheless, Gov. Dalton may feel obliged to sign the bill raising the gasoline tax from 3 to 5 cents a gallon. That is the only way the state highway system can receive any more money.

Unfortunately, the main state system would have this added revenue for no more than six months, beginning Oct. 14. During those months the voters will be asked to vote on another part of the package—a constitutional amendment giving 1 cent of the increase to the Highway Department and dividing the other cent among cities and counties, while abolishing city gas taxes. This proposal was wrapped up by rural road interests and the powerful oil lobby which hopes to get rid of the municipal levies.

One Senator made it plain that the revenue for the state system was packaged with the diversion for local roads to assure Highway Department support. Inside the package is a kind of bribe to take all or get nothing. But what counts now is what the voters will do.

Most Missouri voters live in urban areas, and they contribute most of the highway revenue. They will have doubts about diverting their money to rural roads which, in general, already have unusual state support. They will know that the mayors of St. Louis and Kansas City opposed abolition of city gas taxes as an invasion of home rule. And they may properly ask that, if there is to be a tax increase, the revenue go to the main state system which serves everybody, rural or urban. Inadequate aid for state highways is a high price for breaking the constitutional precedent against diversion of state road revenue.

"YOU'LL HAVE TO GIVE UP SMOKING."

Why Russia Seems Confident

Balance of Power Has Shifted, U.S. Is Timid and Defensive, News Analyst Contents

Howard K. Smith in a C.B.S. News Report

The bald truth is Russia is rejecting relations with America in any meaningful sense regardless of whether Khrushchev shouts or smiles. There can be no more fruitful field for analysis than to ask and try to answer—what has happened?

The first and most important element of an answer is probably just what Khrushchev has said it is—the balance of power has shifted from our advantage to Russia's. Russia long ago broke our monopoly on nuclear explosives and now has rough parity in means of annihilation with us.

However, that did not at first equalize advantage, for Russia had no equal means of getting her bombs at us. Her program for making missiles—both long-range ones to hit the United States from Russia, and shorter range ones to knock out our bases around Russia—that program matured in secret. The achievement of Sputnik in 1957 revealed Russia's lead and the change in the plans of power.

It is noteworthy that the change in Khrushchev's attitude dates from around that time. Up until then, the Russians had seemed anxious to negotiate a genuine disarmament plan with us in meetings in London. Suddenly, the Russians abandoned interest and the talks collapsed.

Meanwhile, the United States Government let America's conventional armed forces deteriorate. The very rifle American soldiers carry is antiquated. Not only the Russians, but our own NATO allies, have more modern rifles than American soldiers do. Maneuvers have shown that the airlift capability to move our troops to trouble spots was very poor.

The condition of our basic power to forestall Russia was revealed with blunt frankness by President Eisenhower in a news conference two years ago. On March 11, 1959, Eisenhower was asked by a reporter about the Berlin crisis which Khrushchev had then dared to launch. Mr. Eisenhower answered, and I quote, "We are certainly not going to fight a ground war in Europe. I say to you, we just don't want to be fighting battles where we are always at a disadvantage." In other words, we were not in a position to resist Khrushchev by conventional forces, in which he is superior to us.

—Poinier in The Detroit News.

The question was put later in the same news conference whether, then, we would fight a nuclear war to resist Khrushchev in Berlin. The President, Mr. Eisenhower, answered, "Well, I don't know how you could free anything with nuclear weapons. Destruction is not a good police force. Nuclear war is a self-defeating thing."

In other words we were not prepared to use nuclear weapons either. To conclude: the President virtually said we are unable to resist Khrushchev. And on that conclusion, or that invitation, Khrushchev has been acting ever since with increasing bravado, the latest alarming degree of which we have watched in the past week.

The main element of an answer to why we have grown timid and the Russians confident is thus, that power has truly shifted. Another element of an answer is the absence of imaginative policies on the part of the United States. In the past eight to ten years, the United States has lived on President Truman's policies—adequate to a decade ago, but increasingly unsuited to changing times.

We push alliances with some of the most reactionary forces in Asia with the result of continuous upheavals to our disadvantage and easy infiltration of our side in Asia by Communist guerrillas. Foreign aid has been in many cases an uncertain annual handout. Our Western allies have been left to move away from us towards a policy of self-protection, as in the case of France, or to gravitate as in Britain towards pacifism. And, we have taken Latin America for granted, failing to see that its own native and growing poverty plus Communist infiltration are turning against us.

Meanwhile at home, our national economy lags behind the economies of even our European allies and a prejudice against paying the price necessary to being a power has become a political religion in the United States.

If the thought is melancholy we can take comfort from the fact that in a brief four months in office, President Kennedy has begun making changes just about as fast as the national mood and the power at his disposal permit.

Deputy Defense Secretary Gilpatrick re-stated our plan to build up conventional forces and, contrary to Eisenhower, he has said we would use nuclear weapons if we have to. President Kennedy has proposed a foreign aid bill permitting long-range planning for the first time, releasing United States policy from the straitjacket of single-year planning. Against great odds, his housing bill got through the Senate. His education bill is gaining support in the nation by all indications.

In the outside world, France has distinctly come closer to the United States in NATO as a result of the President's Paris visit. In Britain, the mighty London Times sharply criticized Prime Minister Macmillan for weak leadership and for allowing the impression that Britain is not firmly with America to spread. In Egypt, Nasser's periodicals are in a word-war with his erstwhile benefactor, Khrushchev, demonstrating to the neutral countries the problems of being neutral with Russia. And, in the United Nations, the United States has boldly stood by the new nations, even breaking with our allies, on the case of Angola.

We are timid and on the defensive. But, there is a strong impression that the President knows what the score is, and if he is given time he will make it add up favorably to the United States.

Big Trucks Score From The Memphis Commercial Appeal

The lobby for operators of big trucks has scored again, this time in the Arkansas Senate. Under rules that require 18 votes, the lobby lined up 19.

Arkansas has had a maximum load limit of 28 tons. The state has invested about $800,000,000 of tax money in highways, one of the largest investment of any type within its borders.

During the hearings on the proposal for heavier truck loads there was an extraordinary incident in which the Highway Department staff presented a written statement attempting to protect this investment. They said only a few miles have been designed for proposed loads. They said most of the present surfaces are rebuilt on sub-grades of the days of lighter trucks. These surfaces do well under automobile traffic and the ordinary size of trucks. On nationwide figures only about five per cent of the vehicles are the heaviest trucks that endanger highway investments. In Arkansas less than 3000 vehicles hold licenses for the heaviest loads. But this is of small moment to operators of big trucks. The lobby that found its way through the Tennessee Legislature barricades in 1959 has now prevailed upon the Arkansas Senate to allow five more tons of payload.

Between Book Ends Starting Over

TWO AGAINST THE NORTH, by Ada White Sharples. (Dial, 252 pgs., $4.50.)

Most people hate the thought of starting over, yet we all admire the person with courage to make a new beginning. Jack and Ada Sharples were no longer youngsters—he was 50 and she 45—when, to escape the situations that were making him drink too much, she suggested plunging into a struggle against nature in Alaska.

The thing that appealed to both of them was slipping away from the need to rely on other people. They would make their own way. Mrs. Sharples was already an authority on wild flowers, so she could start a business of selling seeds by mail while producing a garden to keep them in vegetables. Her husband could learn to trap and hunt the meat they needed.

But from the start their major dream was shattered. They had to rely on others to learn how to garden and to hunt and trap in Alaska; they had to depend on someone else if the seed catalogues were to reach an interested market and if the orders were to come back, and they had to live with someone else until they could get their own cabin built.

After all the struggle, they found they had not gained freedom, for they were tied down by the cabin and the homestead they had worked on so hard. It took something of a nightmare finally to set them free, but at the end of the book, more than six years older, they are setting off again to start another new life.

WALTER LIPPMANN

Must Russia Test to Catch Up?

THE NEGOTIATIONS ON TESTING were resumed at Geneva on March 21 after they had been suspended for about 10 months as the result of the Eisenhower-Khrushchev quarrel. During the interval there had been important changes in the positions of both sides.

The United States went to considerable length in offering concessions, calculated carefully with one eye on what it was hoped that Khrushchev would accept and with the other eye on what the Senate would ratify. What was not foreseen was that during the long recess, the position of the Soviet Union would change radically. The change was marked by the new demand for the Troika, for a three-man administration, and the change was accompanied by many signs that the Soviet Union has lost interest in the whole idea of a treaty to prohibit nuclear testing.

Lippmann

This loss of interest in any treaty is, I believe, far more important than the disagreements at Geneva. The memorandum which Mr. Khrushchev handed to the President in Vienna shows that the Troika business could become negotiable if there existed a will to conclude a treaty.

No Soviet Regrets.

Thus the Soviet memorandum denies that it wants a veto on inspection. The American memorandum of June 17, a very able document, disagrees sharply with the Soviet memorandum which says that there would be no veto against "on-the-spot inspection within the limits of the agreed quotas . . . at the request of the state interested in the inspection without any voting on the control position or any other agency." But the disagreement is not so wide here that it could not be bridged if there was a will to do so.

The evidence is strong, however, that the Soviet government does not now want a treaty, and that it looks without regret upon the breakdown of the whole negotiation. Thus it has proposed that the negotiations be carried over into the coming disarmament conference, which amounts to proposing an indefinite delay in reaching an agreement.

The central question for the President in forming American policy is why the Soviet government is now so little interested in concluding a treaty. A part of the answer, but truly not the whole answer, may well be that the Red Chinese are refusing to adhere to the treaty because they are determined to become a nuclear power in their own right. Were Mr. Khrushchev to conclude a treaty with the United States, it might mean a serious break with Mao Tse-tung.

Another part of the answer, though I would guess a small part of it, may be that if we reject the treaty because of the Troika, we shall be the country that resumed nuclear testing which the "neutrals" fear and hate, because we refused to let "neutrals" participate in administering the ban.

But I cannot help thinking that there is some harder reason than either of these why the Soviet Union has lost interest in the treaty. Presumably, this harder reason lies in the relative advantages to each side if the present moratorium on testing were removed. Initially, this is a problem for the experts. The experts, however, will not be unanimous and laymen, notably the President himself, will have to decide between them.

Reds May Be Lagging.

What is certain in the whole business is that we cannot assume, as some among us do, that the resumption of testing would benefit only the United States and not the Soviet Union. We cannot assume this because if the benefits were one-sided, the Soviet Union would be much more concerned than it is to conclude an agreement. For the Soviet Union is not in the business of helping the United States.

I am told by those who ought to know that while the Soviet scientists and technicians are as good as our own, our weapons and our technology are considerably more advanced and more sophisticated than theirs. If this is true, the question is whether they will catch up with us, perhaps surpass us. For we must remember that the end of the moratorium would permit testing not only underground but anywhere.

We can be certain, I believe, that if the Soviet Union decided that testing in the air was vital to its security, it would test in the air. Also, we do know with reasonable certainty that the Soviet Union is interested in the biggest nuclear weapons, not in tactical nuclear weapons. For as a matter of policy, the Soviet Union does not engage itself directly in small wars, like the Korean war for example, and in conventional forces it is paramount on its own frontiers and within its own sphere of influence.

Superior in Rockets.

Moreover, with its superiority in rockets, it is less interested than we are in smaller and lighter weapons. It is concerned primarily that, if nuclear weapons are used at all, they should be big enough to be decisive. All this may help to explain why the Soviet Union looks with so much equanimity on the resumption of testing.

That the decision which the President will now have to make is not obvious, is not open-and-shut, is shown by the fact that, that without a treaty we shall be free to resume testing, he has not yet ordered testing to be resumed.

He has first to determine whether the net balance of advantages would be substantially on our side.

Lynch Stretches Reds' Streak, but Then Gibson and Cards End It

Birds Win And Split Twin Bill

By Neal Russo
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff

CINCINNATI, June 21—Jerry Lynch was asked whether he felt that he was baseball's best pitcher — which he is.

"Best pitcher? Why, I'm the best pitcher in baseball," said the Cincinnati hero. "Stan Musial was the best, but now I am. Oh, Vada Pinson may be a close second, but he has better legs than I have."

Lynch was exaggerating a bit, of course, but he looked powerful again last night. His bat averted a double defeat for the first-place Reds.

After Lynch tied the opener of the two-night double-header with a ninth-inning single, Cincinnati won in the eleventh, 4-3, when Bob Miller walked Don Blasingame with the bases filled.

Jay's Streak Ended.
Bob Gibson, who had a one-hitter for six innings and a two-hitter for eight, won the second game, 6-3, on a five-hitter, as the Birds ended Joey Jay's eight-game winning streak and the Reds' six-game string.

Lynch's line single over second baseman Alex Grammas' head robbed Carl Sawatski, the top St. Louis pinch-hitter, of another chance for glory. Connecting with two aboard in the seventh off Jay Hook, Sawatski delivered his third pinch home run of the season. That leaves him, and Lynch, three short of the major league record set by Brooklyn's Johnny Frederick in 1932.

"Lynch is the best pinch-hitter I've ever seen — that is, excluding myself," said Cincinnati Manager Fred Hutchinson. "I was a pretty good hitter in my day, you know."

Hutch said he was aware that he was taking in a lot of territory in both major leagues.

Like Hutchinson, Sawatski rates Lynch No. 1 because of his power as well as high average as a pinch-hitter. Last season the Redleg batted a lofty .288 coming off the bench. This season he is .409 as a pinch-hitter with nine hits in 22 times at bat, including three home runs and four doubles.

"I was with the Phillies when Dave Philley hit 400 as a pinch-hitter," Sawatski said. "But Dave hit a lot of bloopers off his fists. This guy Lynch hits for good power as well as average, and he can hit the left-handers as well as the right-handers."

Sadecki Gives Up Hit.
Lynch proved that point by getting his important hit off southpaw Ray Sadecki last night.

Not even Lynch could save the Reds in the second game as Gibson won his fifth, striking out seven and walking three. Gibson has lost three times.

"Gibson's fast ball was tailing and sinking and never was better," said catcher Jim Schaffer. "Bob lost a little near the end, but it's natural because he threw a lot of fast ones. He was jamming them quite a bit."

Sawatski, the Cards' top pinch-hitter last year, appears to be taking over George Crowe's pinch-homer chores as well as his duties as "judge" of the club's assessment court. "Swish" settles disputes over fines for infractions by players on or off the field. If there's an appeal and it is lost, the appellant's fine is doubled. Collections go into a fund used for a players' picnic.

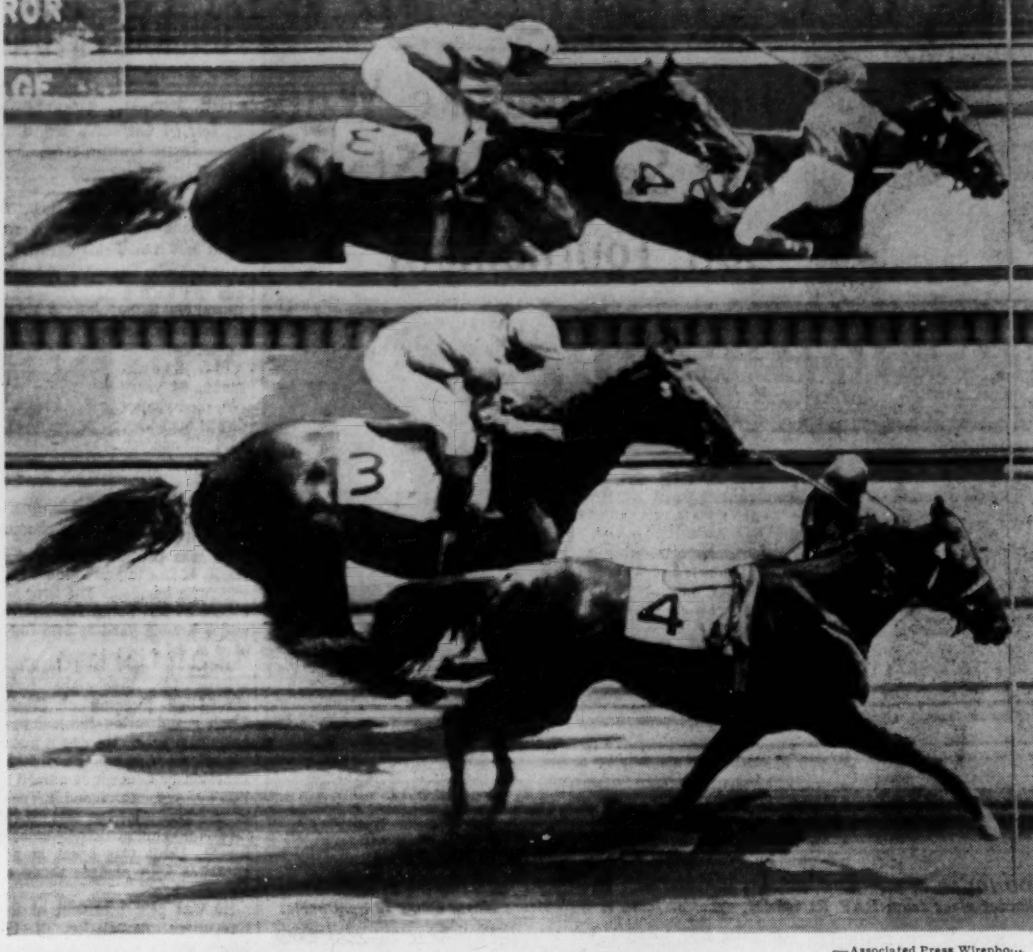

In the second game, Joe Cunningham and Charley James didn't give Lynch much room to star again as they drove in five of their club's six runs with five hits between them. James collected five blows for the night and climbed to .300. Meanwhile, Pinson went .0 for 9 and tumbled 12 points to .329.

An unearned run resulted from Julio Gotay's error (high, wide throw to first) and two singles in the second inning of the opener. In the fourth Cincinnati made it 2-0 on Gene Freese's double and Frank Robinson's second RBI single.

Then in the seventh Musial and Sawatski tried to salt things for fellow Polish falcon Ray Sadecki. After Musial doubled and James beat out an infield hit, Sawatski hit a 1-1 pitch over the right-field fence.

"I knew Sawatski beat me once before with a pinch homer, when he was with the Phillies and hit one in the ninth with one on," Hook said. "I threw him three curves but I guess I got the third one up too much. I didn't think I could sleep well after that, but I guess I'll sleep better than Miller will."

Tied in Ninth.
The tying run in the ninth came on Dick Gernert's single, a sacrifice and Lynch's hit. Miller, who had choked off the home team with a one-pitch in the eighth, bled through the tenth. Then with one out in the eleventh, he walked Robinson. After Leo Cardenas sacrificed, Jerry Zimmerman hit a high bouncer to Miller. The pitcher appeared runner with a quick, accurate throw, but dropped the ball as he got set to throw. Zimmerman was credited with a hit. Then Miller had a 1-and-2 count on Blasingame before

Displaced Rider Unplaced at Finish

Jockey LEWIS REYNOLDS, riding Mr. W. R., at Delaware Park race track, clings to the horse's neck as he passes the photo-finish camera in the first race. Reynolds' foot slipped out of the stirrup and he lost his seat, but avoided injury. His horse was not among the first three, nor was Feller Boy (No. 3), ridden by CARLOS GONZALES. Upper half of picture (in which saddle cloth numbers appear reversed) is a reflection of the finish, as shown on the huge mirror beyond the inner rail.

A new career as a radio-TV commentator, disk jockey or goodwill ambassador and scout for the baseball Cardinals today appeared ahead for Hal Smith. Smith isn't likely to catch again this season. In fact, chances are he may never catch again.

The popular, quick-witted Smith is suffering from a heart ailment. It was disclosed yesterday by General Manager Bing Devine after consultation with Dr. L. C. Middleman, the club surgeon.

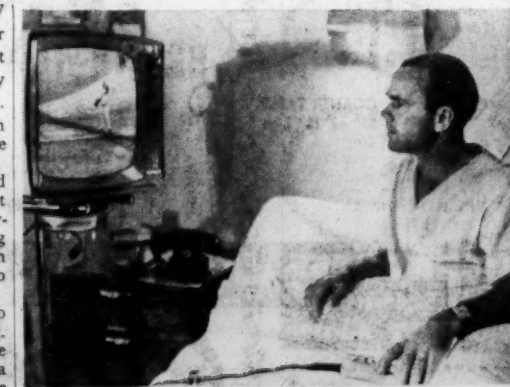

The Cardinals are planning to place Smith on the disabled list.

McKinley, Aussies Advance

LONDON, June 21 (UPI)—Australia's male tennis stars served notice today they are ready for next week's Wimbledon tournament as they steamrolled into the quarterfinals of the London grass courts tennis championships at Queen's Club.

Rod Laver and Roy Emerson led the Aussie advance, crushing their opponents in straight sets. Laver made quick work of the final Soviet survivor, 17-year-old Nuzgar Mdznarishvili, 6-0, 6-3. Emerson trounced Chris Crawford of Piedmont, Calif., 6-0, 6-2. A third Australian, Bob Mark, defeated John Douglas, Santa Monica, Calif., 3-6, 6-2, 9-7.

America's top hope for Wimbledon laurels, Chuck McKinley of St. Louis, joined the Australians in the quarterfinals by easily defeating Norway's Thorvald Moe, 6-3, 6-2.

HAL SMITH, Cardinal catcher ordered by his doctors to give up baseball, watches the TV in his Jewish Hospital room as the Cardinals oppose the Reds at Cincinnati.

but I've been assured by Bing Devine I needn't worry. There'll be a place for me somewhere in the Cardinal organization." "Maybe the doc is wrong," he added. "Maybe I'll be able to play again."

If Smith can't play again, he'll be the third Redbird catcher incapacitated at the peak of his career. The others were Bill DeLancey, one of the heroes of the Gas House Gang in 1934, and Bill Sami. DeLancey was stricken with tuberculosis in 1935 when he was only 23. Sami suffered a heart attack four years ago after being traded to the then New York Giants and was forced to retire from the game.

The Winning Putt

When Chuck Kocsis's approach was a good 90 feet short of the pin on the eighteenth green at Old Warson and Julius Boros's second shot found a sand trap, it looked as though the fifth annual Carling cup international golf matches would have to go extra innings.

Down the eighteenth fairway of the handsome seven-year-old course in Ladue were a couple of capable Canucks who — as golfing partners — go together as nicely as a Canadian sunset and Indian Love Call. A loosey-goosey, gabby pro named Stan Leonard and his younger more serious amateur partner, Gary Cowan, never had lost a match in the border four-man best-ball team play.

Now, with a chance to tie the United States by birdieing No. 18 or maybe even paring it, Leonard overshot the green and Cowan sliced into the Sahara to the right of the green. Kocsis still was the farthest from the pin, by far, and the well-kept bent grass between him and the cup undulated like a caterpillar hurrying home for dinner.

"I think, though, that Kocsis will get his four and the others won't," said Jack Berkley, tournament chairman. Kocsis putted beautifully within four feet of the pin and, though Boros and Cowan came out of the sand with a skill displayed only by sure-footed camels or championship golfers, neither they nor Leonard could get down in par.

And brother Berkley, an impressive big guy who bears a resemblance to Jim Tatum, the late football coach, could claim another credit. After all, know anyone else who — for money — picked Gene Littler and Doug Sanders to be among the first three in the National Open?

Colorful Foursome

The water at Old Warson — or maybe it's the scotch — must endow the folks with magical powers. (Wonder if they'd like to pick the football winners here next fall?) The club manager, Pat Brennan, who used to run Tom O'Shanter in Chicago before George S. May, the mad man of the Midwest, almost ran him right out of his perspicacity, predicted beforehand that there would be no best ball better than 69.

The long, tough course, praised by the international cup contestants, didn't let Brennan down. The low medal, even though the boys courteously were giving one another the short ones, was Al Balding's 71.

Charles Winner of Net Title

Upset-minded Sumner Charles disregarded a No. 3 seeding and walked off with the junior singles championship of the District Junior tennis tournament yesterday at Washington U. The junior girls title was won by Carol Johnson.

Charles, a senior at Country Day High School, handed top-ranked Harry Burrus a 6-3, 6-3 setback in the championship match. In the semifinals on Monday, Charles eliminated second-seeded Claude Bakewell Jr., 6-3, 6-3.

"I stayed in the backcourt all day and just tried to play steady tennis," the lanky champion said. His smashing serves kept Burrus off balance, while the latter's aggressive net play was countered by a host of low placement shots along the boundary lines by Charles.

Burrus, the 1961 Missouri state high school champion, was not shut out of the victory column as he teamed with Gary Rieser to topple Manfred Rietz and Ed Frank, 6-8, 10-8 and 6-2, for the junior doubles crown.

Hefty Frank Connors, Belleville, Ill., copped the boys' 15-and-under singles crown by beating Larry Niemeyer, 6-3, 6-3.

Cheryl English defeated Mary Ann Eisel, 6-2, 6-1, for the girls' 15-and-under title. In the junior girls bracket, Miss English was defeated, 1-6, 6-0 and 6-1, by Miss Johnson.

Miss Eisel and Miss Johnson whipped Gay Mueller and Patty Mersinger, 6-4, 6-3, for the girls' doubles championship.

Cowboys Sign Tackle

DALLAS, Tex., June 21 (AP)—Ken Frost, voted the outstanding lineman at Tennessee last season, has been signed by the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League.

Frost, 6-4 and 250, had been picked as a top tackle in the Southeastern Conference this coming season.

Clutch Putt by Kocsis Gives U.S. Carling Cup Win Over Canada

3 Straight Triumphs For Yanks

By Bob Ruhl

The gallery that ringed the eighteenth green on the Old Warson Country Club course at 6 o'clock yesterday was hushed. Chuck Kocsis stooped over his putter, took a couple of short swings at the grass and then pushed the ball four feet into the cup and gave the United States its third consecutive victory over Canada in the annual Carling Cup golf matches.

Until that dramatic shot, Kocsis, a Detroit amateur, had been playing in the hulk shadow of his partner, professional star Julius Boros.

And there was "Big Julie" holding the trump if Kocsis missed. Boros, about three feet away himself, had failed on a 3½ footer on No. 17 and allowed the Canadians to tie. And it was a safe bet that Boros wouldn't miss again.

Kocsis's stroke was the closing touch in a scrambling finish for Uncle Sam's team. The victory, by a 7½ to 4½ point margin, was the U.S.'s third straight in five meetings of the eight-man teams, made up of four pros and four amateurs from each country.

The one-day tourney, played before an estimated crowd of 2500 for the benefit of St. Louis Children's Hospital, was a four-ball, best-ball match scored on the Nassau system, one point for the first nine holes, one point for the second nine and a point for the winning total. A pro and an amateur from each country played in a two-man team against an American combination.

The triumph for the United States began to take shape on the sixteenth hole when pro Ed Vossler sank a 10-foot putt for a birdie four. That putt Vossler and partner Ed Meister even with the Canadian team of Alan Johnston and Nick Westlock.

Vossler came through again with a three on No. 17, the only par of the day on the tricky 220-yard hole. Canada missed an opportunity to tie when Westlock couldn't connect on a two-footer after a brilliant shot from the trap.

Vossler and Meister, playing in the first foursome off the tee, gave the U.S. and early lead of 2½ points to ½ for Canada.

Pro Dow Finsterwald and partner Bill Campbell were coming up next, tied with the Canadian twosome of Bill Kerr and Keith Alexander. Finsterwald, who usually plays well in St. Louis, was off his game and Campbell was carrying the load. Campbell missed a three-foot putt at seventeen that would have broken the tie. The two teams went into the locker room with a split, 1½ points to 1½.

Finsterwald summed up his play at the presentation after the match: "I'd better carry Campbell's clubs for him. I haven't done anything else for him all day."

The winning American pros collected $750 apiece and the losers got $500.

The United States was out of the running in the third group. Pro Al Balding and 20-year-old Phil Brownlee, a 54-120-pound high school senior, worrying about his final-exam grades, were too much for pro Paul Harney and St. Louisan Bob Cochran.

Balding produced the top medal score of 71, par on the difficult 7067-yard layout that included the most difficult pin placements. Brownlee, who may accept a golf scholarship to the University of Houston, compiled a 74. The Canadians led, four up, after nine and finished with a one-up advantage for a winning 2-1 point score.

So, with the United States holding a slim 5-4 lead, the last four-

Maris Closes in On Two Home Run Records

Yank Star Hits 14th For June

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 21 (AP)—The New York Yankees are still 1½ games behind first place Detroit in the American League pennant chase, but Roger Maris, the Bombers' No. 1 batter of the moment, has edged a bit closer to a couple of home run records.

Maris, bustin' out all over in June, hit his twenty-sixth home run as the Yankees beat Kansas City, 6-2, last night and moved back into second place. It was the fourteenth home run Roger has hit this month—leaving him four short of the one-month record set in 1937 when Rudy York hit 18 in August for Detroit.

Maris, four shy of the major league record for total home runs hit through June 30, has nine games left—two here, three at Minnesota, three at Los Angeles and one at home against Washington—this month in which to crack both marks. That "most home runs through June 30" record of 30 was set by Babe Ruth, who did it in 1928, and again in 1930.

For the record, Maris is nine games ahead of Ruth's record-60 pace of 1927.

Detroit retained its 1½-game lead with a 5-4 victory at Washington, but Cleveland skidded to third, .004 percentage points behind the Yanks, when the Chicago White Sox beat the Indians, 5-3. Boston made it six in a row, winning 11-8 at Los Angeles, and Minnesota trimmed Baltimore, 5-4.

The Yankees beat the Athletics with three-run bursts in the third and fifth innings. Mickey Mantle's single drove in the clincher in the third.

Al Kaline, an outfield star playing his first game at third base, drove in two runs for the Tigers, including the clincher with a fifth-inning single. Kaline, filling in at third while Steve Boros and Chico Fernandez nurse leg injuries, handled two chances perfectly in the field.

The White Sox, climbing into sixth place with their eleventh victory in 12 games, beat the Indians with a five-run first inning.

Redbird Notes
Ernie Broglio will pitch against the Reds' sensational Ken Hunt tonight.

The overflow crowd of 32,190 was the largest at Crosley Field since the 1959 opener, which drew 32,190 . . . Gene Freese, with three hits in his first four times at bat, ran his hot streak to 10 hits in 12 at-bats.

Eyebrows were raised when Hemus announced the Cardinals were playing the first game under protest after catcher Bob Schmidt caught a foul ball in his mask on the bounce in the ninth inning of the opener. Schmidt lost the ball in the lights.

Former umpire Larry Goetz, sitting in the press box, said that Hemus didn't have a chance with his protest.

"I asked the umpire (Frank Secory) if the ball could have rolled fair if Schmidt hadn't touched it with his mask, and Secory said yes," Hemus said.

The rules specify that a runner may advance three bases if a fielder deliberately touches a fair ball with his cap, mask or any part of his uniform detached from its proper place on his person. The rule stipulates fair ball, not foul ball.

Said Cincinnati's Gene Freese, "That made us mad, Hemus with his showboating on that protest. That's why we went out and beat them."

Charleston Receives

Herrera as a Part Of Deal for Moryn
COLUMBUS, O., June 21 (UPI)—The Columbus Jets have lost catcher Roberto Herrera to International League rival, Charleston.
Herrera, a .325 batter, is the second front-line player given up by the Jets in less than a week. Late last week, the Pittsburgh Pirates called up ace catcher Don Leppert, who had been leading the league in batting, in return for receiver Bob Olden.
Herrera, a native of Havana, Cuba, was part of the deal which sent outfielder Walt Moryn from the Cardinals to the Pirates in exchange for an undisclosed sum of money and a minor league player.
Tudor Way Is Top Weighted for Stake
INGLEWOOD, Calif., June 21 (AP)—Juan D. Agostino's Tudor Way stake drew top weight of 126 pounds for the $162,000 Hollywood Gold Cup, July 15.
Hollywood Park racing secretary John Maluvius assigned T. V. Lark second high weight of 125 for the mile and a quarter race.
Tudor Way is now at Belmont. He has won six of his nine last starts.
Other weights included: Don Poggio, 123; First Balcony, 122; Sea Orbit and Don't Alibi, 121; New Policy, 117; Geechee Lou, 116; Seaneen, 114; Finnegan, 112; Wiggle II, 111; American Comet, 111; Henrihan, Grey Eagle and Typhoon, 110.

Dodgers Beat Cubs

The St. Louis Dodgers pounded out 16 hits for a 20-2 decision over the Brentwood Cubs in a Muny Baseball Association Metropolitan League game at Carondelet No. 1.

Triple for Garcia

Gene Garcia was the riding star at Cahokia Downs race track last night with three firsts, including the daily double which paid $503.
The Dodge City (Kan.) jockey won the first race with Charles Huddleston's four-year-old Quest-mar, which paid $73.80 and then came into the winner's circle with Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Hinds's Marion Love. The six-year-old paid $84.20 for $2. The $503 combination was made up of Nos. 8 and 8.
Garcia's third victory came with Hot Money ($12) in the sixth race.
Ray Lansing, the Stanton (Mo.) jockey, a late starter at the track, won with Currantrium ($13.80) in the fifth and Miss Mildred ($22.80) in the eighth.
A crowd of 5296 wagered $43,071.

Two More for Blum
OCEANPORT, N.J., June 21 (AP)—Walter Blum, 27-year-old rider from Brooklyn, had two more winners at Monmouth Park yesterday—giving him a two-day total of eight, Blum, who won with six of his eight mounts Monday, won Tuesday with Amandy ($21.60) in the second race and Highland Lassie ($9.20) in the seventh. He missed in five other races.
Ray Lansing, the Stanton (Mo.) jockey, a late starter at the track, won with Currantrium ($13.80) in the fifth and Miss Mildred ($22.80) in the eighth.
A crowd of 5296 wagered $43,071.

deflected to within 40 feet of the pin, the U.S.'s Bill Campbell showed how a West Virginia legislator handles himself.

When his tee shot stuck in the bank so that he would have had to play his recovery with his right foot in the lake, Campbell switched to a southpaw stance, turned his righthanded iron on its toe and deftly lobbed the ball 30 feet, close to the pin.

Again, at No. 16, Campbell recovered spectacularly. Off the fairway about 90 yards to the right, blocked by a majestic tree, he wedged a tremendous 150-foot uppercut to within 15 feet of the cup.

And at No. 16, too, Kocsis, who also plays the game only for cups, contacts and kicks, came out of the rough in a sidehill lie 170 yards away to within eight feet of the pin. Then he just stabbed at his putt, weakly and meekly. If he had putted that way on No. 18, the Carling cup matches still might be going on.

way of life?" snapped Humphrey. Then he launched into a lecture on the oppression, corruption and illiteracy that the Haitian government has fostered. Finally, he turned to Labouisse and said bluntly: "I suggest that you go back and write a new program and don't come around here until you do."

One reason for the lagging foreign aid program is sagging morale. The program is still being directed by Eisenhower employees who expect to be transferred or kicked out.

Labouisse, a skilled and dedicated public servant, hasn't had time to reorganize his agency. It is still being run by Dr. D. A. Fitzgerald, an Eisenhower hold-over, who disapproves almost every new proposal.

It was Fitzgerald who ignored warnings that the Communists were gaining ground in the impoverished, restive northeastern provinces of Brazil. This was labeled last summer as an area where American aid was desperately needed to counter Communist gains.

When a $20,000,000 program was proposed in September, however, Fitzgerald opposed it on the ground that the problem in northeastern Brazil was "too big to tackle." Brazil is now getting barely half as much aid as tiny Haiti.

Of 180 American technicians now working in Brazil, only three are assigned to the northeast, where they are most needed. The rest are in the cooler, cleaner, more comfortable southern end of the country.

In fact, American aid personnel have spent more time in Rio de Janeiro's plush Copacabana Beach section than in the poverty-stricken northeast.

they may conceive. I repeat once more: the Soviet Union stands for strict and effective international control. Our proposals envisage strict control at each phase of the realization of the disarmament agreement."

There are many loopholes in this, but at least it provides the excuse for one line of questioning.

IF MOSCOW envisages, as Khrushchev says, "strict control at each phase of the realization of the disarmament agreement," and second, if Moscow will accept "any system of control" once the West agrees to universal and complete disarmament, then why not make the nuclear test ban talks the first phase of the larger disarmament talks, subject to verifiable non-veto control at each phase?

Probably Khrushchev would not accept it. As someone once said, words, like glasses, obscure everything they don't make clear, and Khrushchev's words are certainly not clear.

The trouble in the past has been that the Russians have always been generous with their general principles and stingy when they came down to cases. Specifically, when questioned, they have usually implied that acceptance of their universal and complete disarmament proposals must come first and verifiable inspection later.

Even when they agreed to inspection of each phase, they meant that they would allow inspection of the nuclear weapons destroyed but not inspection of the weapons that remained in each arsenal.

OBVIOUSLY, this is not acceptable to the West. The West is unalterably opposed to (1) a Soviet veto on inspection and control and (2) it is opposed to grandiose promises of inspection and control which occur only after everybody has destroyed all their arms.

In the mind of the West, this is like agreeing to have a police force only after everybody has agreed to live by the Ten Commandments and the Golden Rule but no police force while the sinners are cutting up Saturday night.

Nevertheless, Khrushchev did not say this time—though Valerian Zorin, his disarmament negotiator did—that inspection and control should be applied only after universal and complete disarmament was accepted. Khrushchev was ambiguous about it, but he did emphasize control at each phase and he did suggest that the nuclear test ban talks be merged with the disarmament talks.

Accordingly, if Sun Tzu is right, the ambiguity might be worth exploring. The Russians said nay for years on Austria, and then one day they said da. They once made the merest change in their official line on ending the Berlin blockade, and when the new ambiguity was explored it led to an agreement.

speech that "now is the time to take a forceful step" to reaffirm "that our position on Berlin has not changed."

"If we back down in any degree on Berlin, I doubt if many nations of the earth will count on our word again, and in my opinion we cannot afford to stand alone," Bridges said.

Senator Mansfield answered that while he opposed "change for the sake of change," he felt that "orderly change is the key to rational survival."

"Unless we are willing to change (our approach to the Berlin situation) we shall find ourselves in pursuit of the last car of a train that is always pulling away from us."

The Democratic leader said he had received a large volume of mail on his proposal, most of it from Texas, California, New York, Illinois and Pennsylvania, and that the "unfavorable" letters outnumbered the favorable four to one.

(Senator John Sherman Cooper (Rep.), Kentucky, proposed today that President Kennedy ask a bipartisan panel of experts to restudy the Berlin crisis in an effort to build broader support for America's final answer to the problem. United Press International reported.)

(Cooper, former ambassador to India, agreed with Mansfield that there "ought to be debate" on the Berlin question.)

(Cooper said his proposed panel could include such veterans on the Berlin problem as John J. McCloy, Gen. Lucius D. Clay and former Secretary of State Dean Acheson.)

THE ADMINISTRATION is said to be determined to convince Premier Khrushchev that the United States would go to war to protect Western rights in Berlin.

Military contingency plans have been reviewed and will be further reviewed with the Western allies. Some of the plans adopted in the Eisenhower Administration have been retained. Others, calling for specific advance agreements instead of step-by-step consultation have been proposed by Washington.

Pentagon authorities have stressed their belief that when, in 1958, Khrushchev set a six-month deadline for an East German treaty, he was dissuaded from precipitate action when Western military units moved to the East German borders.

The existing contingency plans are understood to call for similar, unannounced troop moves to be followed by a North Atlantic Treaty Organization alert backed by additional troop moves.

Further military moves would include formation of a United States-British-French military task force aimed at the automobile highway linking West Germany at Helmstedt and Berlin, 110 miles inside East Germany.

While Atlantic Pact forces are committed to help defend West Berlin, the former German capital is not in the North Atlantic treaty area. NATO forces thus could not be involved in any peacetime maneuvers affecting Berlin.

FOR CERTAIN contingencies, it was said, a Berlin airlift would again be undertaken, despite possible electronic interference of radio flight aids by the Russians.

Although the attitude of Administration officials appears grim with respect to the Berlin situation, certain soft spots in the Khrushchev memorandum were said to have been identified. One of these concerns the possibility that the Soviets would accept a start on negotiations as fulfillment of their end-of-the-year deadline.

In London, Lord Home, British Foreign Secretary, told the House of Lords that any change in the existing situation in Berlin would have to apply to the Communist as well as to the western half of the city.

The Soviet Union must understand, he continued, that in any negotiations, the United States, Britain and France would insist on the right of the people of Berlin to choose their own way of life, the right of the Allies to be in the city and the right of access to the city.

"If these three things are accepted," Lord Home said, "we are always ready to talk about the future of Berlin."

JEFFERSON CITY, June 21—Gov. John M. Dalton announced today an impostor had been identifying himself as a nephew of the Governor. He said the man had been operating in St. Louis, and announcing he had influence with the Governor.

Dalton said St. Louis police had been looking into the activities of the impostor. The man had been representing himself as Dalton's administrative assistant.

WOMAN SAYS SHE WAS HIT WITH BASEBALL BAT AT BAR

Mrs. Mary Katherine Parker, of the 500 block of Chestnut street, suffered multiple head cuts yesterday in a fight at the Fairmont Inn tavern, 511 Pine street.

Mrs. Parker, 34 years old, told police she was struck on the head with a baseball bat by Mrs. Malvalene May Sieskas, 35, of the 2900 block of Harper street, a barmaid at the tavern. Mrs. Parker said she was sitting at the bar with a companion, Dudley Allen, 34, of the 3600 block of North Twenty-third street, when the quarrel with Mrs. Sieskas began.

Police arrested and charged all three with individual peace disturbance. Mrs. Sieskas also was booked suspected of assault to do great bodily harm. Mrs. Parker was treated at City Hospital and released.

EISENHOWER IS GUEST AT YORK (PA.) DINNER

YORK, Pa., June 21 (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower was guest of honor at a stag dinner of 300 industrial leaders of York county last night.

Although Gen. Eisenhower had accepted the invitation to attend with the provision that he would make no speech, he did urge the industrialists to take an active interest in politics.

He told them they must "put business sense into the business of politics . . . or we are going to wake up some day and be sorry." He was presented with a gift of historical documents relating to his farm in nearby Gettysburg, Pa.

TOWN TIGHTENS WELFARE RULES TO AVOID TAX RISE

NEWBURGH, N.Y., June 21 (AP)—The city of Newburgh, seeking to avoid a tax rate hike, announced yesterday a drastic tightening of regulations governing welfare benefits.

The new rules, to be effective July 15, order all able-bodied men on relief assigned to the city building maintenance department for 40 hours of work a week.

Those denied relief under the rules include welfare recipients capable of private employment who refuse job offers, regardless of the type of work involved; mothers of illegitimate children who in the future have any other children out of wedlock, and relief applicants who voluntarily left their previous jobs.

The relief allotments for any family will not exceed the take home pay of any city employee with a family of comparable size. Applicants for relief who are new to the city must show evidence that they came to Newburgh with a job offer.

BILL TO PERMIT CITIZENSHIP FOR JAPANESE DOCTOR OK'D

Dr. Nobutaka Azuma, resident physician in charge of the house staff at Lutheran Hospital, will be permitted to apply for United States citizenship under a bill passed yesterday by Congress.

Dr. Azuma, who was born in Japan, came to this country as an exchange visitor March 18, 1951, and has been at Lutheran Hospital since then. He is 45 years old and lives at 4119 Potomac street.

The bill was approved by the House and sent to the President. Dr. Azuma said he will begin proceedings to obtain his citizenship as soon as the bill is signed.

A FEW ISSUES STRONG MIXED, SLOUGHER LIST

NEW YORK, June 21 (AP)—The stock market closed mixed today in quiet trading.

Gains and losses of fractions to about a point were the general rule for key stocks.

An exception, Transiron spurred more than 3. International Telephone was down about a point.

The market was irregular from the start and remained that way throughout the session. The low volume on yesterday's rise was a dampening factor.

American Telephone was up a fraction and Woolworth continued its comeback with a gain exceeding a point. There was little group leadership, however, and no particular news to spur the list either way.

Volume for the day was estimated at 3,200,000 shares compared with 3,280,000 yesterday.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange in late afternoon were irregular in moderate trading. Electronic Assistance advanced more than 2. Bell Telephone of Canada fell more than a point.

Barnes Engineering and Technico were up about a point each. Bell Die & Machine was briskly traded and down a fraction. Carriers "B" was active and fractionally higher.

TORONTO STOCK MARKET IN A WIDE UPSWING

TORONTO, June 21 (AP)—The Toronto stock market reached skyward this morning and set a new high in early trading.

Brokers attributed the rise to last night's federal budget. Paper firms were strong as a direct result of the Canadian dollar's drop, while motorists advanced smartly on the news of the 7 1/2 per cent excise tax cut.

LONDON INDEX UP 3.1 PTS.

LONDON, June 21 (AP)—The Financial Times daily index of London stocks today was 330.6, up 3.1.

IRON ORE, COAL AND GRAIN SHIPMENTS LOWER

CLEVELAND, June 21 (AP)—Shipments of iron ore, coal and grain on the Great Lakes this year to June 1 totaled 17,907,793 net tons, a little more than half the tonnage moved in the corresponding period last year, the Lake Carriers' Association reported.

Because of the reduced demand for iron ore, many lake fleets were late getting started, and the ore movement to June 1 amounted to only 5,450,014 gross tons, compared to 18,151,132 tons in the comparable 1960 period.

Of the three commodities, only grain was carried in larger volume this year than last, the total for the period amounting to 3,796,315 net tons, against 3,158,432 tons moved to June 1, 1960.

Only 31 of the 272 grain cargoes—11.4 per cent—were shipped in United States ships. Canadian ships carried 176 cargoes and overseas vessels 65.

CENTRAL SOYA CO. PROFITS BETTER IN TWO PERIODS

NEW YORK, June 21 (AP)—Central Soya Co., Fort Wayne, Ind., soybean processor and feed concern, reported an improvement in profits for both the quarter and nine months ended May 31.

For the March-May period, net income rose to $1,253,702 or 45 cents a share on sales of $71,791,287 from $1,180,266 or 41 cents a share on sales of $79,938,977 in the comparable three months of 1960.

Over the longer period, income amounted to $3,565,648 or $1.21 a share against $2,763,871 or $1.07 in the like span of 1959-60. However, sales were down to $204,187,949 from $207,767,753.

POWER OUTPUT RISES

NEW YORK, June 21 (AP)—The nation's production of electricity rose last week for the second week in a row, the Edison Electric Institute reported today.

The institute's figures also show production was 6.3 per cent higher than in the comparable week one year ago.

Power output for the week was 15,455,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 15,004,000 in the previous week and 14,441,000 at the same time in 1960.

All sections of the country showed gains over a year ago.

Aluminum Production Up. NEW YORK, June 21 (AP)—The Aluminum Association said May primary production in the United States was 157,544 short tons compared with 144,637 in the previous month and 175,863 in May 1960. The five-month total was 754,190 short tons compared with 835,997 in the similar 1960 period.

GSA ACTS IN DISPUTE AT RECORDS CENTER

A move toward seeking a temporary injunction against picketing by members of the Building and Construction Laborers & Hod Carriers Union Local 42 was begun with the National Labor Relations Board office here yesterday by the General Services Administration.

GSA filed charges alleging two violations of the National Labor Relations act in picketing of the new Federal Records Center at 3630 Marine avenue.

Picketing, which began Monday, stopped final interior construction work by about 75 men, and also stopped the transfer of records to the new center.

Union officers have objected to cleaning of shelves in the new building by custodial workers employed by the Federal Government, claiming it has deprived union members of work.

In its petition, the GSA alleged the union has tried to coerce the employer into assigning certain work away from present employees to members of the union, and that the object of the picket line is to force contractors and subcontractors on the nearly completed $6,500,000 project to no longer do business with the GSA.

Salvatore Cosentino, regional director of the NLRB here, said his agency already has the case under investigation.

Edwin Hoelscher, administrator of the GSA office here, said there have been no meetings with labor union officials and no meeting is planned.

The Government began transfer of records to the new center from their present location at 1724 Locust street on Monday, but the move was stopped after a single truckload when drivers, who are Teamsters, refused to cross the picket line.

DIVORCES RICHARD A. SLACK, GETS CHILDREN'S CUSTODY

Mrs. Nancy W. Slack obtained a divorce at Clayton today from Richard A. Slack, an executive of the Slack Furniture Co.

The decree was awarded, on the ground of general indignities, by Circuit Judge Douglas L. C. Jones. The Slacks were married Aug. 8, 1941, at Mount Pleasant, Tex., and separated last March 19. The Slack home is at 9 Country Aire drive, Town and Country.

Mrs. Slack was awarded custody of three daughters, Nancy Jo, 18 years old, Judith Ann, 17, and Sharon, 14. She is to receive $125 monthly for each child. Alimony will be $125 a month and she receives $5000 under a settlement agreement. Slack filed an entry of appearance, but did not contest the suit.

NAMED TO NURSING BOARD

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, June 21—Gov. John M. Dalton today named two St. Louis area women to the State Board of Nursing, Division of Registration and Examination.

Appointed were Miss Elizabeth McIntosh of Brentwood and Sister Mary Helen Doerr of Normandy. Miss Edna Peterson of St. Louis was succeeded on the board by Mrs. Jo Ann Jackson Todd of Poplar Bluff.

C.A.B., FTC CHANGES APPROVED BY HOUSE

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP)—The House voted approval yesterday of President Kennedy's plan to reorganize the Civil Aeronautics Board and the Federal Trade Commission.

Barring contrary action by the Senate, the changes designed to increase the authority of the agency chairmen will become effective early in July.

The House registered its support for the CAB and FTC reorganizations by defeating separate but identical disapproving resolutions by roll call votes, 178 to 213 and 178 to 221.

The voting generally followed party lines. Most Republicans have opposed all of the executive agency reorganizations proposed to date by the Administration. Last week enough Democrats teamed with House Republicans to kill the President's plan to alter the organization of the Federal Communications Commission. On the same day, however, the House approved administration changes for the Securities and Exchange Commission.

All of the plans submitted for the independent agencies give the chairmen authority to delegate power for specific activities to individual commissioners or employees. The administration said the changes were proposed to give the agencies more time to consider major matters of policy and planning.

BOAT SINKS IN OHIO RIVER; 6 MOVIE EXTRAS RESCUED

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
PADUCAH, Ky., June 21—Six movie extras were rescued from the Ohio river yesterday after a small boat in which they were riding sank about 50 feet offshore. Two boats went to their assistance, using life preservers to save them.

The six, including three women who do not know how to swim, were being taken to a river boat, the River Queen, in connection with the filming of a movie on the winning of the West. The boat sank in view of most members of the movie company, standing on the shore near Caseyville Landing, about 70 miles northeast of Paducah.

Those aboard the boat were Alben Barkley II of Paducah, 16-year-old grandson of the late Vice President; C. T. Cochran of Elizabethtown, Ill.; Bob Garland of Cave In Rock, Ill., who was operating the boat; Mrs. Freeman Hurford of Rosiclare, Ill.; Mrs. Hurford's 17-year-old daughter, Ruth Ann, and Mrs. Harvey Cullison of Rosiclare.

Benton's Niagara Falls Mural

Frustrated

The disappointments of life were summed up in the words, "You're too little," for 9-year-old Joey Stevens of Grand Rapids, Mich. The boy was all set for a summer camp when officials learned that he was a year too young. After getting the bad news, Joey waited to see the last truck out.

Stan Delaplane The Brighter Side Of TV's Mayhem

SAN FRANCISCO, June 21. WHILE NEWTON MINOW was chewing out the TV people for blood-and-thunder programs, two little girls fell down a well in Noblesville, Ind.

Their mama looked down and found them with their feet and backs braced against the wall above water. "How in the world did you learn to do that, children?" she asked. "We saw it on TV, mama," they said. Their mother then fished them out, hardly damp. This puts me (and the FCC chairman) in quite a spot. Here we have been seeing only the bad side of the channels. Quite forgetting the light shed by the picture tube.

If moppets are going to learn how to save themselves in wells, it makes the program highly educational.

Nobody asked the 8-year-old tykes what feature taught them how to prop themselves up in wells. But I do not think it was a do-it-yourself thing.

More likely one of those feet-in-cement gangster jobs. The Mob throws the Good Guy down a well. "Let's see you get outa dat, Good Guy!"

They go away. The Good Guy props his feet and back against the walls. The girl friend throws him a rope. He climbs out and root-te-toot-toot! He blasts mobsters! Much to their surprise.

One sixth of a child's waking hours is spent watching TV—as much time as he spends in school.

This interests me because my own moppets are frozen to the set. For a good many silent years I could not get TV. The signal could not come around the corner of the hill. Then we "got on the cable." Bedlam.

"I COULD hook up earphones on it," said the TV repairman. "But with your kind of set, they could get a nasty shock."

"How much of a shock, TV man?" (It was my thought to let them get a nibble of electricity. Maybe we could have a little peace.)

However, the TV man said it could develop enough juice to fry them like an egg. So I gave that up.

Now we try to look on the bright side of things. During the "children's hour," according to a recent survey, there were 12 murders and three suicides.

"There were almost continuous shootings, sluggings and a wide variety of other violent conduct and crimes," said the surveyors. "Including a gullitoning and a man trampled under the hooves of a horse."

It is hard to find an educational side to that. But you never know what children will pick up.

For instance, out of one program we learned how to grease a wagon wheel. The wheel was making noise and attracting Indians, see? So they greased it.

That would come in handy if we ever got a wagon.

Another program showed a dandy way to rob a bank. And while we do not intend to rob banks, the safe-opening scene gave me a couple of ideas which I applied later to a sardines can that we lost the key to.

There were some scenes where this killer was climbing in a window. And I think the climbing technique might help us get an old tennis ball out of the rain gutter on the roof.

So if you keep your eyes open, there is a lot to be learned beside mayhem. Maybe.

Ann Landers

A 3-Year-Old Winner

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 3-year-old child wraps her mother around her little finger and I'm sick of it.

About six months ago Sheila began to cry at night when she heard us getting ready for bed. My wife took her into our bed to comfort her and that started something.

Now, Sheila refuses to stay in her own bed. We find her in our bed every night when we retire. She screams if I try to take her to her own room and my wife always gives in and lets her stay.

I am not getting the proper rest. I'm about a foot and a half too long for Sheila's youth bed or I'd go to sleep in it. Please give me some help.

DARK CIRCLES

Dear Dark: That 3-year-old is smarter than you and your wife put together. She has learned how to make trouble between you two and it's been working like a charm. Put Sheila in her own bed tonight and let her cry until morning if she wants to—but don't give in. When she learns her little tricks won't work, she'll give up. If she hasn't settled down to normal after a week, get professional help.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband had a mild coronary a few months ago and must be at home for several weeks. A certain lunatic who works in his office phones him every day "just to talk." I don't mind her phoning him but she sends notes and wacky cards almost every day and I think she's overdoing it.

I always go through the mail before he gets it and I've been throwing out the cards and notes from her which I feel are too personal. I know she's a nut, but she is also very sexy and I don't want him to get any funny ideas. Do you feel I'm justified in protecting my home against possible trouble—no matter how far-fetched?

CAUTIOUS

Dear Cautious: I don't buy the bats in the belfry label just because you do. If as you suspect, this woman has ulterior motives, your childish response will certainly not do your marriage any good. The least you can do is hand over your husband's mail—ALL of it. You sound like a bit of a nut yourself, Kiddo.

To learn how to keep your boy friend in line without losing him, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Necking and Petting—And How Far to Go." Including with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Try and Stop Me

ONE OF THE TOWN ELDERS called at a miserly noble's house in quest of a contribution to the annual charity drive. The noble had seen him coming, however, and instructed the butler to say, "The master has gone away on a long journey."

The elder spotted the noble peering from behind the drawing room curtains, and told the butler, "Convey my respects to your master if he ever gets back home—and warn him not to forget his head at the window the next time he ventures forth."

The bidding:
South West North East
2♣ Pass 2♥ 4♣
4♣ 5♣ 5♣ Pass

FROM A TEAM OF FOUR match comes this hand which resulted in a gain of 2970 points for one side.

When Team A held the North-South cards, the bidding went as shown. The two club bids were artificial and forcing to game. The heart response was ace-showing and did not necessarily indicate a heart suit. South eventually became declarer at six spades after East-West had contested in diamonds.

West led a diamond which declarer ruffed. After drawing two rounds of trumps, South ran five heart tricks, discarding a club from dummy, and conceded a club. He scored 1430 points for the slam. An opening heart lead, followed by a club return, would have defeated the contract two tricks.

At the second table, where Team B held the North-South cards, the bidding went:

South	West	North	East
2♣	Pass	3♣	4♣
Pass	Pass	Dble.

South should have bid six spades (possibly six hearts) in the bidding sequence shown. He should have counted on North for spade support as well as the ace of hearts, and should have assumed that the only possible loser was a club.

It is true that neither six spades nor six hearts could be made on the actual hand, with proper defense, but there was no way for South to know this. He had the values to bid the slam and should have acted accordingly.

The error turned out to be doubly expensive. South led the king of spades and that was the last trick his side took. He switched to the king of hearts, but declarer ruffed, drew two rounds of trumps, took a club finesse, and made six diamonds doubled.

This came to a tidy 1540 points, and the outcome of the deal was that Team A made a slam with the North-South cards and then proceeded to make a slam with the East-West cards. The total damage was 2970 points.

THE GOOD OLD summertime is great for swimming, boating and fun in the sun. But we all know what heat, humidity and too much sun can do to wreck our best efforts to appear cool and pretty. Here are beauty aids, some brand new, for good grooming in hot weather:

(1) A new hair spray helps control coiffures on sticky days. (2) For that bouffant look, made so popular by Mrs. Kennedy, here is a rat-tailed comb with special teeth for back combing or "teasing" the hair to give more body. (3) To add luster, a bit of conditioning cream may be brushed through the hair. This is another new product.

(4) Under a lacy "Cabana" cap, the peacefully resting lady wears new soft curlers that fasten with clasps and come in an assortment of cool, easy-on-the-eyes colors. (5) Eye pads and (6) "Bright Eyes" eye drops are said to soothe eyes irritated by sun and wind. (7.) Pressed powder mascara, easily put on with a tiny sponge applicator, is one answer to those unattractive streaks caused by melting mascara.

(8.) A pale green cologne with a lily of the valley fragrance looks cool and has the light scent that is refreshing on a warm day. (9.) "Cool Spray" is bath powder in a spray can, a neat idea for avoiding spilled powder. (10.) To add a touch of luxury to a reviving bath, "Bubbling Bath Oil" helps soften water and adds bubbles and a floral aura. (11.) "Bain de Soleil" is a cream which is said to help obtain even, rapid tanning and to be unaffected by salt water.

The items illustrated here are available in St. Louis Shops. For information call Main 1-1111, Station 439, between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, or mail self-addressed stamped envelope to Fashions Illustrated, St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Tribulations in the Movie Colony

HOLLYWOOD, June 21 (AP).

THE MOVIE COLONY had these tidbits to talk about today: Teen-age idols Natalie Wood and Robert Wagner separate. . . . Lana Turner loses a chance to settle a damage suit. . . .

Gary Crosby is suffering from nervous exhaustion. . . . Linda Christian fails to win a trust fund. . . .

Actor Wesley Morgan squabbles with his mother over his earnings. . . . Natalie Wood and Robert Wagner, who embarked three and a half years ago on a marriage their fans considered perfect, are living apart.

The announcement yesterday caught the movie colony by surprise. A spokesman said it would be a trial separation; the pair has no immediate plans for divorce. Cause of the rift was not announced.

Wagner, 31, and onetime child star Natalie, now 22, were married Dec. 28, 1957, in Scottsdale, Ariz. Each had a large teen-age following and the romance and wedding were widely publicized by movie magazines.

In Los Angeles a squabble among lawyers appears to have snarled Lana Turner's offer to settle a $750,000 civil suit for $20,000.

The action stemmed from the 1958 killing of Johnny Stompanato, Lana's boy friend at the time. Her daughter, Cheryl Crane, now 17, told investigators she stabbed Stompanato to protect Lana.

A coroner's jury ruled the case justifiable homicide. Attorney Melvin Belli, who prepared the suit in behalf of Stompanato's only child, John Stompanato III, 13, said yesterday the proposed settlement was off.

Bing Crosby's eldest son, Gary, is due in Hollywood today to recuperate from an attack of nervous exhaustion.

"He saw a doctor in Chicago who said he had nervous exhaustion and should quit work immediately," the 28-year-old singer's press agent said yesterday. "He is to go to bed for a month for a complete rest."

A Hot Springs, Ark., night club where young Crosby was to begin an engagement Thursday, said Bing's younger brother, Bob, has agreed to fill in for his nephew.

In Chicago, a night club spokesman said Gary's engagement was canceled two days early because he walked out on the show.

A Los Angeles court has turned down actress Linda Christian's bid for a $200,000 trust fund for her two daughters from the estate of her former husband, actor Tyrone Power, who died in Madrid in 1958.

Noting that the youngsters already have $10,000 yearly potential income from a previously established trust fund, Judge William J. Palmer commented yesterday: "Only an infinitesimally few of the world's children are so fortunate."

The judge said Miss Christian, 33, has the "professional recognition, youth, attractiveness, ambition and apparent good health" needed to contribute toward the support of her daughters, Romina 9, and Taryn, 7.

Bumptious playwright Brendan Behan and his wife, Beatrice, are en route by train to New York following a high-spirited drinking party he threw for friends yesterday.

Though he poured liquor liberally for his friends, Behan took nothing but carbonated water and then coffee.

Of his new play, "Richard's Cork Leg," almost completed, Behan quipped: "It's about sex, politics and religion, in that order—in a ratio of about 60-20-20."

A young actor and his mother are battling over his earnings as a minor in the "Life of Riley" TV series.

Wesley E. Morgan, 21, testified in Los Angeles yesterday that, as his guardian, his mother took control of $60,000 he earned between 1953 and 1958, except for 15 per cent she was ordered to invest in Government savings bonds. He wants $40,000 returned to his control.

His mother, Mrs. Josephine M. Morgan, 58, said in a counter suit that all the money was spent on her son, plus $4127 of her own money she wants him to return to her.

Lawrence Galton New Products for Home

PURER AIR: Spray a new liquid on your forced air-heating or air conditioning system filter and it does a double job—removing odors from indoor air and killing many bacteria as well. First used in hospitals and now available for the home, the filter coating has a glycol base that dissolves common cooking and other organic odors. It also contains quaternary ammonia that kills many bacteria on contact. The coating is water soluble, too—which means you can rinse it off a contaminated filter quickly with just cool water, leaving the filter clean, ready for re-use.

FIX-UP AIDS: Leaking gutters and downspouts, often troublesome to repair, can be fixed readily now with a new kit that provides a self-soldering, plastic-impregnated patch material that adheres to both painted and bare metal surfaces. Cut to any needed size and used with a special solvent contained in the kit, the patch set in two hours, lasts indefinitely. . . . Mixed with Portland cement, a new liquid produces a fast-setting compound you can use to plug leaks and repair holes, cracks, joints and openings in masonry. It also dampens basements and stops water seepage.

JET SHOWER: A new shower bath head produces an unusual kind of tingling shower and may save you money on water and water heating costs. It uses a rotating, oscillating nozzle that ejects an aerated, swirling water stream. The stream has an invigorating, massage-like effect. You can adjust the head, even while taking a shower, to deliver a wide swirling spray, narrow swirling stream or aerated flow. A low gallonage discharge rate makes a little water go a long way. The head fits any standard, 1/2-inch thread shower outlet.

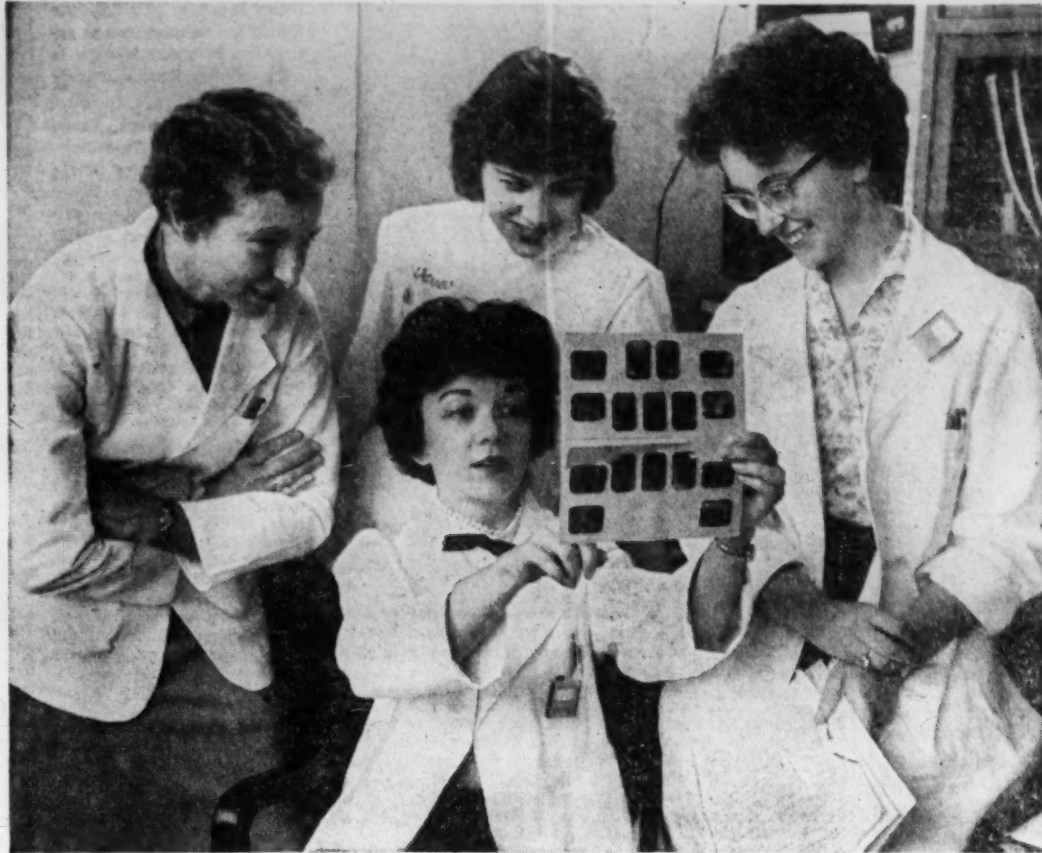

Edyth Thornton McLeod Beauty After Forty

I FEEL OLD AND OUT OF EVERYTHING. I have only very old people for clients in my work and in my so-called social life. Being a widow I cannot go out in the evenings without an escort, and since this is not possible because the whole town would talk, I am stuck. I am 57 and am thinking of moving to a large city and 'getting lost'. At least I could go to the movies and shows alone and not cause comment. I can get a transfer from my company. What do you say?

I say yes, transfer. A new kind of life in maturity is stimulating and wonderful. Make the try, don't just think about it, but join some clubs or a hobby class in the city and make friends. There are many interesting things for people alone to see and do in any large city. You can be more youthful with somewhere to go and with new surroundings.

Women Dentists--Small but Satisfied Minority

They're Encouraged at Washington U., Where Two Are on Faculty; How They Picked Career in Man's Field

DR. ANN McQUILLAN holds X-ray pictures of a patient's teeth; standing from left are DR. PAT PARSONS and Washington University dental students EVANGELINE GREER and SHIRLEY AUSTIN.

By Clarissa Start
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

WHEN NEW PATIENTS arrived at the office of Dr. A. McQuillan, dentist, they often assumed that the pretty, dark-haired girl was the receptionist or nurse. And they were amazed when she began working on their teeth. Now she forestalls the situation by saying, "I am Dr. Ann McQuillan," when a patient comes in for the first time.

Dr. McQuillan is one of a very small minority group, the 1.2 per cent of dentists who are women. In Russia, most dentists are women. In many European and South American countries 50 per cent of the dentists are women, but in the United States they have met with dissuasion, discouragement and in some cases, discrimination.

Happily this is not the case locally. At Washington University's School of Dentistry, which has two women faculty members, one recent graduate and two students, Dean Leroy Boling would like to have many more women among his 200 students. As for the women themselves, they have weighed the advantages and disadvantages of being a woman in a man's field and have decided they like it.

"At first I thought I might have to be a suffragette," said Dr. McQuillan, a 1959 graduate, now a practicing dentist and part time instructor in clinical radiology at the school. "But I found no discrimination at all. Everyone was wonderful to me. Even in practice now, I find no discrimination and aside from an occasional patient—usually an older man—who needs a trial period, most people accept me immediately."

How does a woman get interested in the unlikely field of dentistry? Very often through family connections. Shirley Schroeder, member of this year's graduating class at Washington U., is one of six in her family, including her father, husband and father-in-law, who are dentists.

Ann McQuillan became interested in dentistry when she worked as a receptionist for her uncle, a physician who shared a clinic building with a dentist in a small Montana town. For a long time she was undecided between medicine and dentistry and finally chose the latter.

Shirley Austin, a freshman in the School of Dentistry, was similarly undecided. "I went to school as a pre-dental student," she explained, "and then switched to chemistry. As a graduate student I started working on the baby tooth survey and now I've decided I'd prefer dentistry to research."

Some women students enter dentistry as patients, although the average patient might consider this the least likely way to become endeared to the profession. "I had a lot of orthodontic work done when I was a child," said Dr. Pat Parsons, another graduate and faculty member at the university. "After graduation I decided orthodontia wasn't what I was interested in; I was interested in children in general so I'm specializing in that work now."

Both Dr. McQuillan, whose office is with an association in Clayton, and Dr. Parsons, who shares an office in Ladue, have young budding practices now. Dr. McQuillan is in general practice while Dr. Parsons is specializing.

"I get most of my patients on referrals from pediatricians or other dentists who have children they can't manage or don't want to spend their time 'fiddling around' as they put it," said Dr. Parsons.

While dentistry for children requires some "fiddling around," it's not difficult, providing you follow certain rules, Dr. Parsons believes.

"You have to be honest with kids," she said. "You can't point to a man in the dentist's chair and say, 'See, it doesn't hurt Daddy and it won't hurt you,' because it might. On the other hand, you have to stay away from words which are loaded for kids, such as needle, shot, pull. I think if you choose your words and are honest, children are no problem. It's best to say, 'This will bother you for a minute but it has to be done.'"

Dr. Parsons has been bitten occasionally, but only accidentally, she says.

Evangeline Greer of Enid, Okla., a junior, is one student who has no dentists in the family but decided on dentistry just because she thought she'd like it.

"There's a great deal more to it than I thought," she said. "In your freshman year there are a lot of basic sciences, and in sophomore year you get dental work and technique on a laboratory basis. In your junior year you get your first patient. I've just had my first two, for radiography. I think it went all right."

Evangeline comes from a town where a woman in any profession is looked on as something of an oddity, she says.

"In fact," she added, "I'll be the first woman in my family ever to hold a job."

Shirley Austin of Kirkwood raised her eyebrows in amazement. "Why, most of the women I know, mother," she said, "including my mother."

Evangeline's mother objected to her going into dentistry, partly, she thinks, because "she thought I was biting off more than I could chew," to use an appropriately toothy simile. It is true that many women are discouraged from the profession because of the length of study required.

"Two years of preliminary college is needed besides the four years of professional study," Shirley said, "and half the freshman students have had four years of college with or without another degree."

"The attitude of most relatives," said Dr. Patterson, "is, 'She'll never make it. We'll humor her and let her try it but she won't like it.' Then when you graduate, the same ones who discouraged you, say, 'We knew you could do it, always said you could.'"

One attitude which annoys Dr. Patterson is the often heard comment, "I don't see how you can put your fingers into all those dirty old mouths."

"I sold pots and pans while I was going through dentistry school," she said, "and I thought handling all that money was dirty work. As for being a stenographer or secretary, or doing any kind of routine office work, I could think of nothing duller."

A special study by Nell Snow Talbot of Chicago, reprinted from the March 1961 issue of the Journal of Dental Education, is titled, "Why Not More Women Dental Students?" It goes into some of the attitudes of faculty, fellow students and women dentists themselves toward women in the profession. It pointed out that much needs to be done to educate girls, parents and even professional dental groups to the opportunities for women in dentistry.

It also brought out contrasts in the situation. At the one extreme, many schools welcome women students; 150 places in dental colleges were unfilled in 1959-60. At the other end, some women reported incidents of discouragement; one told how one of her instructors "even went so far as to draw houses with red crayon on my papers and wrote, 'This is where you belong.'"

Students Shirley and Evangeline find their teachers encouraging and the attitudes of the men students—who outnumber them 50 to 1—varying with the individuals. Some approve, some disapprove, some think they are crazy, some go overboard with gallantry.

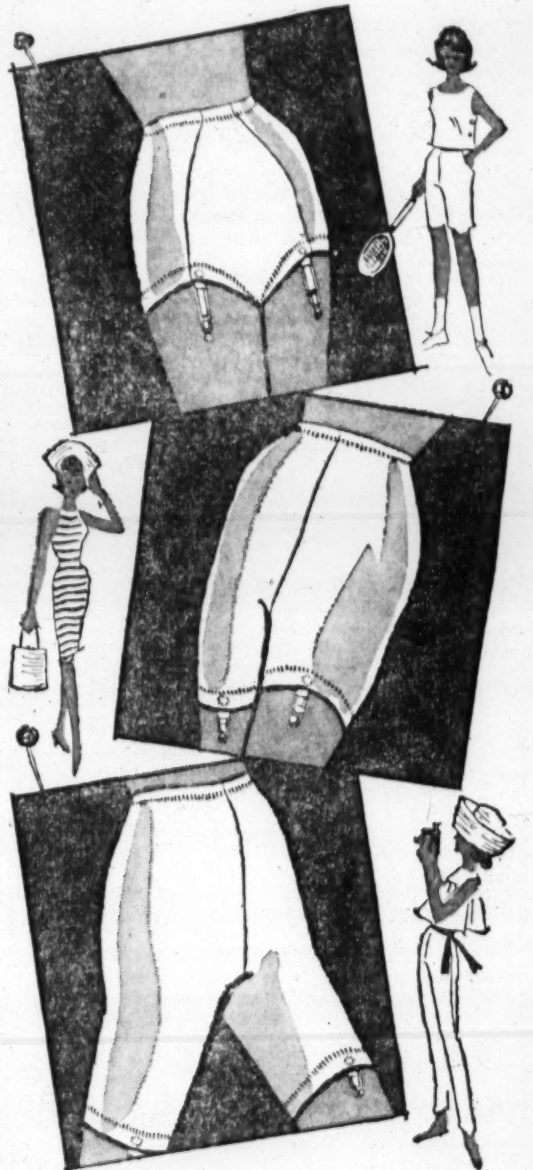

"They think they have to do all heavy lifting and very little greasy mechanical thing for you," said Evangeline with amusement. "I'll admit there's a lot more mechanical work in dentistry than you expect. The wheels don't go around by themselves. If something breaks down you have to fix it. Look at the grease on my hands—I've just been repairing a motor."

On the other hand, women in dentistry are like women everywhere. You can't generalize about them.

"Repair a motor?" asked Dr. Ann McQuillan disdainfully. "Gosh, I'm a total loss. I'm not a bit mechanically inclined. I treat my dental equipment just like my car—run it until it stops and then I call a man."

BACKSTAGE WHISPERS:

One of the featured members of a hit show winds up with less money than her understudy. After an army of creditors get their shares. . . . A renowned producer-director was unemployed for seasons because of his Thirst. . . . He finally defeated the problem and got an offer to stage a show. On the day he was to sign contracts he did a Brendan Behan. . . . The 1962 season may include a play written by a former big-time Raffles in a coast clinic. Plans using his "own money" to back it. Someone should tell him that only two shows are selling out. In short, there's No Biz in Show Biz. . . . The flop "A Call On Kuprin" cost backers over $200,000. The author wanted it produced in London first—where the price would've been $15,000. . . . Bea Lillie sent Kaye Ballard of "Carnival" a plant. The flip wordage on the card shocked the stage hands.

BIG CITY SIDESHOWS: Chinatown's penny-arcade on Mulberry Street. Busier than any in the Times Square. . . . The flower peddler at B'way near 46th who greets you with: "Plant a garden in your lapel button-hole". . . . The Allerton Fruit Shop on Madison where you can buy alligator soup.

TIMES SQUARE CIRCLE: New kind of show biz the public will never see: The American Oil Company's full-length musical movie in color, "The Big Step." An 80-minute show for its 29,000 dealers coast to coast. Produced in H'wood with an original book, lyrics and score starring Janis Paige, Thomas Mitchell, George Murphy and Andy Devine. CAST OF CHARACTERS: Margaret Truman, who has no sandwich named for her in the fancy N.Y. dellys, but Key West, Fla. named a laundrette for her. It is located at the corner of Margaret and Truman Streets there. . . . Drama student Michael Zokas, the World's No. 1 "Gone With The Wind" fan. Read the tome 60 times. Saw the film 34 perfs and compiled a scrapbook on Vivien Leigh larger than the novel. . . . The new juggling team from Cleveland named Ham & Swiss. . . . Marlene Dietrich revealing why she didn't attend the Oscar Owards event when she was in town at the time. "Nobody asked me!" . . . Harry Fox, who makes sure that song publishers get their royalty loot. His Park Avenue tepee has solid-gold plumbing fixtures.

NEW YORK NOVELET: The following love-letter to Buffalo's Norma Douglas was written by talent appraiser Gene Knight in The N. Y. Journal-American: "Biggest hit on the Woody Herman bill at the Waldorf was WW's latest discovery, Norma Douglas. This girl is loaded with talent. She can belt ballads like Roberta Sherwood, sigh soft, soothing numbers like Rosie Clooney, tap dance like Eleanor Powell, play piano grand, cutup like a comedienne and sing in half a dozen languages. What else has a girl got to do to be billed as a star? As a power swinger Norma Douglas is a zinger."

Debut Tea Today For Miss Macdonald

By Margaret Allen Ruhl

MRS. LEROY ALVIN WEIDLE, who introduced her daughter, Miss Suzanne Weidle, now Mrs. William C. Macdonald, a generation ago, today will present her granddaughter, Miss Suzanne Weidle Macdonald. The party, a tea from 4 to 6 o'clock, will be given at Mr. and Mrs. Weidle's home, 1148 Center drive, Hampton Park.

The hostess, her daughter and the debutante will stand near the grand piano in the living room to receive their guests. The entire house is decorated with white roses and lilies of the Nile. They are massed on the piano and on a hall table and are reflected in a Chippendale mirror on a low table in the living room. The room is illuminated with candles in antique crystal sconces and candelabra.

Mrs. Weidle has covered her dining room table with a white linen and point Venise cloth and will light it with white tapers in silver holders. The centerpiece is white roses contained in a silver epergne. Even the flowers blooming in the garden are white, magnolias predominating.

The debutante will wear pale blue lace overlaid on white organza, a short dress with a pleated skirt, fitted bodice and cap sleeves. She will carry the ivory and net fan used by her mother at Mrs. Macdonald's coming-out party. For yesterday's tea forget-me-nots were threaded through the fan and moth orchids were fastened at its base.

Mrs. Weidle's dress is white cotton printed with flowers in shades of aqua and blue. Mrs. Macdonald's is pale blue chiffon lined with a blue velvet bow at one shoulder. Her shoes are blue to match.

Miss Macdonald's younger sister, Miss Barbara, and one of Barbara's Mary Institute classmates, Miss Linda Kruse, will serve punch on the patio. Debutantes alternating in the dining room are to be Miss Gay Armstrong, Miss Elizabeth Curtis, Miss Nan Hall, Miss Anne Baldwin, Miss Charlotte Johansen, Miss Susan Marriott, Miss Sandra Peterson, Miss Lucy Schmidt, Miss Sue Hanser and Miss Macdonald's house guest, Miss Carolyn Kirspele of Grose Pointe, Mich., her roommate at Mount Vernon Junior College, Washington.

Friends of the hostess assisting will be Mrs. Joseph Sunnen, Mrs. Clayton R. Lupton, Mrs. Taylor E. Patton, Mrs. Magnus F. Peterson and Mrs. Ray Mills.

The debutante's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Macdonald, whose home is 63 Briarcliff, Ladue, will give a small dinner for her on Sept. 9. Meanwhile there will be several luncheons, among them one to be given Tuesday by Mrs. William H. White Jr. and Mrs. Otto Hanser at Mrs. White's home, 4 Oak Park Court, Creve Coeur. On July 7, Mrs. H. O. Schrepel and Mrs. William H. Wenzel will give a coffee klatch from 10 to 12 o'clock at the Schrepel home, 1156 Hampton Park drive. Mrs. Patton, Mrs. Lupton and Mrs. Peterson will be hostesses at a luncheon July 11 at Glen Echo Country Club, and on Sept. 13, Mrs. Charles Kruse will have a similar party at the Bath and Tennis Club.

Miss Holly Biggs Honored at Luncheon.

THE FIRST PARTY honoring Miss Holly Hall Biggs, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David C. Biggs Jr., 5370 Waterman avenue, was a luncheon today at the University Club. Hostess was Miss Biggs' great-aunt, Mrs. Bonner F. Bell, who entertained 40 guests, friends not only of the guest of honor but of her mother and Mrs. Bell.

The twelfth floor was reserved for the party. Strong colors, the red of bright geraniums, in the broad window overlooking the skyline to the west and at the entrance to the rooms, and the blue of cornflowers, were combined with yellow daisy tones in the decorations.

The debutantes sat together at an L-shaped table, while older guests occupied four tables for six guests each. The favors were cha-cha beads, shading from yellow to blue-green and red, made from seeds used in the manufacture of rosaries, and brought from Haiti. The strands were entwined in the napkins.

Miss Biggs wore a bouffant yellow silk organza skirt and a white bodice, the wide straps covered with daisies to match her bouquet. Her mother was in an emerald green sheath, with a choker of daisies, and Mrs. Bell, in black and white silk print.

Miss Biggs will make her debut on her birthday anniversary, Dec. 14, probably at home, at a party partly planned by her grandmother, the late Mrs. A. C. Hall, when the debutante was a little girl. One of five children, she has one sister, Miss Susan, and three brothers, David III, Bruce Goddard and Christopher. Her paternal grandparents were the late Mr. and Mrs. David Clifton Biggs Sr.

Next week, Miss Biggs will take her brother, David, to Camp Northwestern at Lake Geneva, Wis., after which she will visit relatives and friends in Dundee, Ill.

Outdoor Party for Miss Sue Hanser.

MRS. A. CARL WEBER entertained a group of the 1960-1961 debutants Monday at a garden luncheon at her home, 5 Oak Park court, Creve Coeur. The party was in honor of Miss Carol Sue Hanser, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Otto C. Hanser Jr.

MISS SUE HANSER... honored at luncheon.

Guests were greeted by an imitation polar bear as they walked into the garden, where small tables decorated with pink and white carnations were placed. A manikin in swimming attire stood at the edge of the pool, in which were floating Japanese parasols, favors for the girls.

The guest list included the guest of honor's sister, Miss Jane Hanser; her cousin, Miss Mary Beth Hanser; Miss Sally Curby, Miss Sallie Powers, Miss Ellen Schlafly, Miss Clare Shepley, Miss Betty Noland, Miss Marian Foster and Miss Janet Britt.

Luncheon in Honor of Two Debutantes.

TWO DEBUTANTES, Miss Virginia Lee Edwards and Miss Melissa Jane Stutsman, were guests of honor yesterday at a luncheon given by Mrs. Robert W. Kelley, at her home, 5371 Waterman avenue. The debutantes are daughters, respectively, of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Edwards, and Dr. and Mrs. A. C. Stutsman.

Places for the debutantes were marked with plastic flower pots holding artificial flowers and favors—French enamel circle pins. Dessert, ice cream, was served in real flower pots and topped with real blossoms.

Guests at the party were Miss Marget Breckner, Miss Lucy Costen, Miss Dorothy Dixon, Miss Elizabeth Goodson, Miss Elizabeth Hagemann, Miss Sharon Hertel, Miss Deborah Hoelz, Miss Linda Young, Miss Lynn Hopewell, Miss Carol Robins, Miss Eleanor and Miss Elizabeth Rogers, Miss Holly Biggs, Miss Judith Sutter, Miss Ellena Charles, Miss Noel Bosse and Miss Peggy Hilpert.

At Party on Italian Ship

CAPT. DOMENICO MARRA of the Cristoforo Colombo greets Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Hieber, 616 South Meramec avenue, Clayton, at his cocktail party aboard the ship. The Hiebers were sailing for Naples for a tour of Europe. They will return home from London late this month.

Miss Senderowitz, J. L. Oppenheimer Married in New York

THE WEDDING of Miss Beryl Senderowitz of Allentown, Pa., and Joseph L. Oppenheimer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig E. Oppenheimer, 5936 McPherson avenue, took place Sunday at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York. The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Morris Senderowitz of Allentown.

Two St. Louisans were in the bridal party. Dr. Henry E. Oppenheimer, 10 Enfield drive, Chevy Chase, was best man for his cousin, and Miss Susan Schwarzenberger, 1146 East Parkedge lane, University City, the bridegroom's cousin, was one of the bridesmaids.

The bride was graduated earlier this month from Columbia University with a master's in social work. She earned her A.B. degree at Smith College. Mr. Oppenheimer, a former St. Louis newspaper man, is a graduate of Washington University. After a wedding trip to Barbados, B.W.I., and Martinique, Mr. and Mrs. Oppenheimer will live at 210 East Seventy-third street, New York.

Camping Trips For Residents Of Kirkwood

SEVERAL KIRKWOOD CHILDREN have been collecting their fishing and camping gear in anticipation of overnight stays in some of the famous western state parks.

George and Joseph Smith, aged 10 and 7 years, respectively, children of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Smith III, 639 North Taylor avenue, will leave later this summer for a tour of the west with their grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. William M. James, 112 Frontenac Forest. Their trip will take in areas of the west rich in legend, with stops in Salt Lake City, Yellowstone and Grand Canyon national parks, Craters of the Moon, in Idaho, and the Petrified Forest in Arizona.

Kathy and Curtis Smith, children of Dr. and Mrs. Louis M. Smith, 921 Lanyard lane, will camp overnight with their parents on a six-day trip to Mazatlan, Mexico, where the family has rented a bungalow on the Pacific shore for a month. Traveling in separate cars, the Smiths will be accompanied by the families of two associates of Dr. Smith, who is a professor in the Graduate Institute of Education at Washington University. They include Dr. and Mrs. Robert J. Schaefer, III Craig drive; their three children Steve, Emmett and Erick, and Dr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Callahan, 38 Arundel place, Clayton. The Callahans will have with them their two children Dennis and Kevin. Each family will occupy its own cottage at Mazatlan, which is on a peninsula extending into the ocean.

In Europe for a summer holiday is Miss Frances Ellen Neal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Neal, 515 North Dickson avenue. Miss Neal, a graduate cum laude of Maryville College this year, sailed June 9 from New York on the Aurelia. She was accompanied by two college classmates, Miss Jerry Fox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Fox, 6218 Waterman avenue, and Miss Jan Kaveney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kaveney, 6904 Washington avenue, University City. Also with the group is Miss Kaveney's sister, Miss Frances Kaveney, and Miss Bonnie Bowdern, both students at St. Louis University, and another Maryville College student, Miss Kathleen O'Connell. Miss Bowdern's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Bowdern. Miss O'Connell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. O'Connell.

Traveling under the auspices of the National Federation of Catholic College Students, the group will visit nine European countries in a period of several months. Miss Bowdern and Miss O'Connell have obtained permission to leave the tour in Paris, where they will be guests of Miss Bowdern's uncle, Lt. Col. A. T. Maguilo (ret.), who spends six months of each year there. The young women will return to this country Aug. 17 by way of Montreal. Part of the group will then go to Boston, the others to Rochester, N.Y., to visit relatives and friends.

Mrs. Robert M. Pinkerton, 5 Southridge drive, Glendale, recently returned home from an extended tour of Europe. With her on the trip was Mrs. James Van Epps of Chicago. The two friends flew March 28 from Chicago to Paris and then visited Italy, Switzerland, Greece, Germany, The Netherlands and Great Britain. They attended the Tulip Festival in Amsterdam.

Arriving in St. Louis next Monday for a visit will be Mr. and Mrs. Hal B. King of Glen Ridge, N.J., and their three children Christy, Bradley and Stacey. The Kings will stay with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred L. Johnson, 4 Homewood drive, Kirkwood. They will be entertained at an open house which the Johnsons will give Sunday, July 2, and at a barbecue the next night, arranged by Dr. and Mrs. Everett R. Roeder Jr. at their home, 307 Oakley lane, Kirkwood. The visitors will return East July 7.

Miss Watson Plans September Wedding

A WEDDING on Sept. 9 at the Church of the Blessed Sacrament in Wichita, Kan., is being planned by Miss Karen Anne Watson, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Greene Watson of Wichita, announced her engagement last week. She will become the bride of Robert Aloysius Biermann, 6219 Rosebury avenue. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William John Biermann, who also live in Wichita.

Miss Watson, a graduate of St. Louis University, is a speech therapist at the Institute of Logopedics, Wichita. Her fiancé, a graduate of Notre Dame University also holds degrees from Oklahoma State and St. Louis Universities.

Martha Carr's OPINION

A Mother's Great Mistake

Dear Martha:

I AM WRITING TO YOU about a friend who has more than her share of unhappiness and tragedy. She was married at 18 and had four children. Her husband did not support her. He was drunk most of the time. Often she couldn't give the children anything to eat; at other times all she had was gravy made with flour and water poured over some potatoes. Under these circumstances the pressure on her became unbearable and she had a nervous breakdown and finally walked out on her children. This sounds terrible, I know. I can truthfully say that if she had been in her right mind she would never have left her children. The children were taken away from her and she was forbidden to see the children until they are 21. I know she made a great mistake but she was not responsible at that time for her actions. She recently found out that her children are in a certain institution. To see them, to just hear the sound of their voices, would mean everything to this mother who in one insane moment gave up everything she had to live for. I know you have helped so many people. I wonder if you could help to bring this mother and her children together again.

MRS. D. P.

This is a tragic story. If the mother deserted her children during a nervous breakdown she deserves help now. I suggest you or she go to the Lawyers Reference Service in the Civil Courts Building and talk to the lawyer in charge. The initial visit will cost only one dollar. The phone is GARfield 1-6154 and it would be best to phone for an appointment. If there is hope that something can be done, the Reference Service will see that this mother is put in touch with a lawyer who would be willing to handle her case for a fee which would be within her limited means.

Dear Martha Carr:

I WOULD LIKE to send my thanks for the letter carried in your column and written by the parent of a handicapped boy. It was the most wonderful letter about me. I am so touched I am at a loss for words. May I say thank you very much and God bless you?

HANDICAPPED BARBER.

Dear Martha:

I HAVE BEEN GOING with a 50-year-old man who lives with his mother. He's a real mama's boy. He hints that we will be married after his mother dies. Shall I wait?

THANK YOU.

You're wasting your time. Even if this man wants to marry after his mother dies, he's poor material for marriage. He won't want a wife; he'll be looking for some woman to continue to mother him.

IN ANSWER TO "WORRIED MOTHER": I have just talked to the Veteran's Administration about your son's case. Contact the registrar at John J. Cochran Veteran's Hospital, 915 North Grand boulevard, OLIVE 2-4100, or the Veteran's Hospital at Jefferson Barracks, TWInbrook 2-7277. I am assured that he will receive help for the condition you describe in your letter.

Send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for Martha's leaflets, "Guide for the Bride," "Showers for the Bride," and "Wedding Expenses," which explain what you pay for in a wedding.

Joseph G. Molner, M.D. Sun Tan Oils, Lotions

DEAR DR. MOLNER: I am 33 and have a very dry skin. What ingredients should a sun tan lotion have to combat dry skin and still insure a good tan?

G. Q.

Use a sun tan preparation in a cream base rather than in lotion form.

chance of burning.

DEAR DR. MOLNER: I am 33, married, with two children. I have had psoriasis all my life and have tried many physicians and medications, but it gets worse.

I am a businessman, calling on the public, and therefore it is quite embarrassing for me. Do you know of any new medication? Are there any foods that I should not eat?

W. P.

Psoriasis is one of the most baffling and difficult of all skin conditions to treat. One difficulty in treatment is that psoriasis sometimes varies with the seasons, and frequently improves in summer. These seasonal changes make it most difficult to judge whether some improvement is due to medication—or just because of the time of year. Or even just because! For the condition can start, and likewise can stop, for no reason we can ascertain.

I'm sorry to say that I know of no new medication that has proved itself. There's an endless stream of potions suggested for psoriasis, but none so far has proved to be the answer.

It has been the experience of many physicians to see one case clear up while another remains completely untouched by identical treatment.

A friend of mine is plagued with psoriasis and he has gotten along very successfully by relying on cosmetics to cover up the blemishes.

There is no reason to believe that psoriasis will be affected by anything you eat.

Bill Vaughan Says

WE MAY BE MORE ADVANCED scientifically than our national critics allege. Surely those hats our girls wear must contain radar installations at the very least.

SUGGESTIONS FOR EXPANDING the President's cabinet seem particularly apt this time of year. The present personnel just can't take care of all the commencement speeches.

IT'S ONLY THE POLITICIAN who has trouble deciding on which image to project. The rest of us know who we are, even if we occasionally have to look at the monogram on our handkerchiefs to make doubly sure.

Sinatra and Associates, Party Givers

By Joe Hyams

The New York Herald Tribune Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch

LAS VEGAS, Nev., June 21.

IF THERE IS ANYTHING Frank Sinatra and associates like, it's an excuse to have a party—or to take over someone else's party. Three weeks ago they were in Las Vegas for the Kirk and Anne Douglas seventh wedding anniversary and in Douglas's words, "Everyone raps these guys, but no one mentions the wonderful way they give of themselves. My wife Anne will never get over the thrill when they got on stage and sang to her." Recently Sinatra and associates flew from Kanab, Utah, where they were making a film called "Soldiers 3" to Los Angeles to help the Tony Curtis celebrate their tenth wedding anniversary.

The group was back in Las Vegas over the weekend where Sinatra was headlining at the Sands Hotel. As always, there was a party: it was Dean Martin's birthday and after Sinatra's regular performance, the stage was taken over by Martin, Sammy Davis Jr., Peter Lawford, Joey Bishop, Eddie Fisher, Vic Damone and three of the four Crosby brothers—Philip, Dennis and Lindsay.

The whole group of associates was in on the act. Most of them sang birthday songs, familiar melodies with special lyrics by Sammy Cahn and Jimmie VanHeusen who seemed to be the court's musical jesters. There was even a birthday cake baked in the shape of a bottle.

It was a raucous, hilarious, two-hour circus which the audience seemed to enjoy even more than the participants.

"Our play is lovely, it's marvelous," Frank Sinatra said in an early morning interview in the Sands lounge. "We never hurt anybody and we don't plan to. We just try to make everybody happy. I've never yet seen an audience dislike what we do. Like for instance the other night—you know a dinner audience in a night club can be the deadliest in the world because they're there with a knife and fork and don't give a damn about anybody.

"But what we did to Eddie Fisher. It was beautiful. We jumped on stage and he broke up and he couldn't sing any more. I never saw a reaction from a crowd like we saw that night—I swear it. It was like New Year's eve. The audience was swinging and drinking because all of a sudden they got the kind of a germ that we brought into the room. I've never seen an audience react like that."

"Then we went over and did the same thing to Vic Damone at his club and Danny Thomas. What we do is a rib—a good natured kind of rib. Really we rib ourselves. It's great fun. It's stimulating."

What is at the core of the special closeness of Sinatra and associates, the most "IN" group of show business. Sinatra explained it this way. "I never had any brothers or sisters. I'm neighborhood every family had 12 kids and they fought constantly. But whenever there was a beef or a party, you never saw such closeness. That's exactly what's happening here with us. Even though we're grown men and not kids, we're all members of the same family."

Fish Sauce

Most cooks like to cook smoked beef tongue in cold water. If a pressure saucepan is used in cooking the tongue, you may wish to soak the meat first.

GAS

go modern...go whole house...go GAS

Whole-house air conditioning has never been so practical. Any home can be cooled with GAS. No matter how you heat your home in winter, there's an economical GAS unit made to order for it... a central unit to circulate cool, filtered, dehumidified air—for healthful comfort all summer long, summer after summer.

From room to room and floor to floor, cooling is constant. And there's nothing to obstruct the view from your windows...nothing to mar the appearance of your home, inside or out. What could be more practical, more efficient?

Or more economical: GAS lets you cool your house for as little as half the cost of any other method. In fact, all the advantages of GAS heating are yours with GAS air conditioning: economy, dependability and silent operation.

• And remember: Laclede's experience and reputation are behind every unit they sell and service. Get the full story. Call Central 1-3800, Station 259.

Tape Veneer
About the best way to conceal the edges of three-fourths inch plywood that is to be given a natural finish is with a special flexible tape with a wood veneer on one side. Use a veneer made of the same wood as the plywood and just glue the tape to the edge. When you've finished, you can't tell which is wood and which is the tape veneer.

Dowl Substitute
If you don't have a masonry anchor handy, a length of wood dowed or wood lead pencil can be inserted into the hole in the masonry and these will usually hold a screw if there isn't too much weight involved. A wad of steel wool or lead wood packed into the hole will also take and hold a screw.

Painting Tip
Wait for the sun to dry the dew before doing any outside painting because even a thin film of moisture on the surface can spoil a paint job.
Mild Onion Rings
Soak onion rings in water or milk before dipping them in flour or batter for French-frying. Makes their flavor mild!

Ants Raise Mushrooms

By Ramon Coffman

USUALLY I THINK of bees as the most interesting of all insects, but ants are close rivals. Ants do various things that seem "almost human."

Q. Is it true that some ants raise mushrooms?

A. In many parts of Latin America, including Mexico, Central America and Brazil, there are ant "farmers." These ants have several names, including leaf-cutters.

Leaf-cutting ants use long, narrow trails when they march from their nests to trees. Hundreds of ants, even thousands, will go up the trunk of a selected tree, and will use their jaws to cut leaves into pieces. Then a good-sized piece is held in the mouth and is carried down the trunk of the tree to a point near the nest.

The pieces are larger than we might expect even an ant to carry. They are held in such a way that they cover the ant, and that is the reason for the name of "parasol ant."

The leaf parts are taken to underground gardens. After being chewed, the material is dropped on the soil. The chewed-up leaves do the work of fertilizing.

In later days, spores of a fungus of the mushroom family are dropped on the enriched soil. Growing in the ant gardens, the fungi serve as food for both adults and young among the ants. The name of "mushroom growers" is used for these ants.

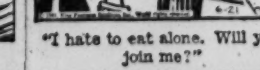

Q. Are the "farmer ants" found north of Mexico?

A. In rare cases they have been observed in scattered parts of the United States, but their real homeland is the Torrid Zone.

For Nature section of your scrapbook.

FACTS about Mexico's people and their customs, also about the ancient Aztecs, appear in the leaflet called "Mexico and the Mexicans." This leaflet will be sent to you without charge if you enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Send your letter to Uncle Ray in care of the Post-Dispatch.
